IT IS FREQUENTLY charged by married gentlemen that their careers have been retarded because their wives are wedded to a pay check.

By this the married gentlemen mean that the wives are so greatly in love with a regular salary that they will not hear of their husbands taking any chance that might jeopardize the salary.

We have often heard married gentlemen who are working for somebody else say they would have made great strides in the world had they not been deterred from cutting loose from a pay roll by their wives' fear of the consequences.

The composing room force returned to work on instructions from Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union, who said their strike was illegal.

It was indicated, however, that negotiations for a new wage agreement would proceed.

GAPS IN LEVEES TO BE REPAIRED

Engineers Anxious To Do Work Before Usual Spring Rise Comes

CHARLESTON, Mo., March 13 (AP) United States army engineers made preparations today to move machinery into the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway next week for the work of rebuilding levees opened during the recent Ohio-Mississippi river flood.

Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Reybold, district engineer at Memphis, Tenn., said survey parties had been working in the 131,000 acre flood basin for several days and draftsmen were busy completing construction plans.

Explaining the engineers were anxious to close the levee gaps before the Mississippi begins its usual spring rise, Colonel Reybold said:

There are many crevasses over a [illegible] which must be closed. The engineers blew three crevasses to allow the floodway to operate, but the others were made by the pressure of the floodwaters.

COTTON AT HIGHEST POINT SINCE 1930

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP) Government market specialists reported today that cotton this week had reached the highest level since 1930.

The average price of 14.1[illegible] cents a pound of middling 7-8 inch cotton at ten spot markets was 42 points higher than a week ago.

The bureau of agricultural economics said spot cotton markets reported heavy buying for both domestic and foreign trade, with sales of 98,000 bales compared to 100,000 bales last week and 64,000 bales in the same week last season.

Requests for release of 774,000 bales of government loan cotton was reported by the commodity credit corporation. This is about one fourth of the 3,000,000 bales of cotton held by the federal loan agency when it started releases on February 1.

Domestic mills were said to have increased their unusually high rate of activity early this month. The bureau said the daily rate of domestic consumption in February averaged 33,600 bales, compared with 32,700 in January, and 33,000 in February.

INCOME FILING DEADLINE NEAR

Payments Expected To Reach $840,000,000 By Monday Night

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—Revenue officials, expecting income tax payments to drop $840,000,000 into the federal cash register by midnight Monday, estimated that 1,500,000 persons filed returns today.

With the March 15 filing deadline just around the corner, authorities added, however, that less than half of the expected 6,000,000 returns have been submitted.

They said that collection offices throughout the country remained open today as long as there was any "active demand" by taxpayers. On Monday, all offices will stay open until midnight.

Corporations, which are expected to file between 600,000 and 800,000 returns, customarily wait until the last day to save interest on their money. Many individuals with high incomes also wait until March 14 for the same reason.

If the usual trend is maintained, most lower-bracket income taxes will be paid in full by the Monday deadline, while many upper-bracket individuals and corporations will take advantage of the government's "installment plan." This permits them to remit in four quarterly payments.

In recent years, about 73 per cent of taxpayers with incomes of less than $5,000 have paid in full by March 15, while only 58 per cent of those with incomes in excess of $5,000 have paid in one lump sum.

The water is moving out of the floodway very slowly, and it will be more than a month, probably before the entire basin is dry."

2 WOMEN FOUND DEAD IN CISTERN

Leave Note Explaining Why They Chose To End Own Lives

PRINCETON, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—A scribbled note in a milk bottle today led to discovery of the bodies of two elderly spinsters at the bottom of a deep cistern.

The sisters, Bess and Agnes Dann, aged 53 and 56 respectively, were locked in each other's arms and bound together in death by a rope tied loosely about their waists.

On a table in their comfortable home, investigators found a message informing their "dear friends" they had been plagued for "weeks and weeks" by "constant pain in head and heart."

A milk man found a note in a bottle on the Dann doorstep Friday asking him to send police. Officers found no trace of them then, but Assistant Police Chief Mandus Frederickson located the bodies in ten feet of water today.

The farewell letter said in part:

"We have been taking our medicines religiously but I get no relief and it is the same with us both. We have wanted so terribly much to get well but as long as that is impossible there is left but one alternative now.

"Peace is all we ask and perhaps mercy will be granted us, too.

"P. S. Won't someone please see that our cat is put to sleep? I couldn't manage that, too.

"(Signed) Bess."

Deputy County Clerk T. A. Senogho said he learned from friends the sisters had spurned advice that they apply for relief. Both had been ill for some time.

self into a coma to avert sentencing yesterday on a second degree murder conviction in the New Year's eve shooting of Harry Love, 45, broker, to whom she said she was married secretly.

Pronouncement of sentence, which may be from seven years to life imprisonment, was postponed until Monday.

Mrs. Love, who had shown few signs of animation, aroused slightly today and muttered, "Harry . . . Harry . . . Harry. Don't go . . . Don't go."

She lapsed into the trance-like condition about 9:30 p. m. Thursday after she told Jail Matron Vada Sullivan:

"I can sit in this chair or lie on this bed and kill myself by will power. I can make myself die whenever I want to."

Since then Mrs. Love had taken no nourishment or drink except a few spoons of water. This morning Dr. Blank injected into her right arm a glucose and saline solution. He said this was to "sustain vitality and prevent dehydration."

Until she spoke today she had been silent and motionless most of the time and had responded only slightly to pin-pricks and a powerful stimulant. She turned over occasionally, arms folded across her chest, and sometimes extended or drew up her legs.

Her color, pulse, respiration and temperature have remained in normal range, physicians reported.

Mrs. Love's brother, Henry [illegible], called at the jail this morning and said she had been roused from a previous similar condition by the playing of soft classical music. He suggested this be tried again.

For the time Dr. Blank turned a deaf ear to the suggestion.

A jury convicted her of slaying Love at a Santa Monica beach club last New Year's eve. She said he broke a holiday date with her to dine with his mother, Mrs. Cora Love, club woman, and accused the latter of trying to wreck the marriage.

2 Undertakers Join In Burying 739-Pound Man

MOBILE, Ala., March 13.—(AP)—Officials of two undertaking establishments jointly preparing for the Tuesday burial of "Happy Jack" Eckert, 739-pound circus trooper who was billed as the "world's fattest man," said today they believed the coffin in which Eckert would be laid to rest would be one of if not the largest ever built.

The body of Eckert, who died Thursday night at Flomaton, Ala., as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident, is scheduled to be brought to Mobile tonight or Sunday morning.

It will be encased in a coffin two feet eight inches in width, six feet three inches in length and two feet nine inches in depth. This was said to be "nine or ten inches deeper than the average."

The morticians said the coffin, specially built by a Birmingham casket manufacturer, was "four times extra size" or "about six times the average size." The coffin was described as "14 inches wider on the inside than the average."

The casket will have a double bottom and will be put together with screws and bolts, no nails being used due to fear they might give way under the enormous weight of the corpse.

Eckert, the morticians said, was insured by a burial insurance firm only recently and "there will be a loss because of the added expense of a special casket" and because "it was necessary to use five times the embalming fluid usually used."

"Happy Jack," son of a Fort Wayne, Ind., cigar maker, weighed 19 pounds when he was born and was put on exhibition at the age of 10 when he weighed 265 pounds. He crossed the Atlantic in 1882 as a member of the P. T. Barnum troupe, which featured Tom Thumb, the midget.

Eckert appeared in the two world's fairs at Chicago and in the Panama Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915. He traveled in a combined home and theater on a truck, for he was too heavy to walk. He had been traveling with circuses and carnivals of late and received his injuries which proved fatal while en route to Mobile to participate in the Mardi Gras celebration.

At that time it took 10 men 30 minutes to get him into an ambulance, according to J. F. Brennan, his manager, who suffered two broken ankles in the same accident.

Eckert's body has reposed temporarily in a Flomaton funeral home while a pine box was being made as an improvised coffin. Attaches at the funeral home said approximately 1,500 persons have passed by his bier there.

Funeral services are to be held here Tuesday at 11 a.m. Eckert was a member of Alexandria lodge No. 61, Loyal Order of Moose, Americus, Ga., Elks, Woodmen of the World and the Outdoor Showmen of America.

GERMAN ATTACKS ON U. S. CEASE

Press Criticism Ended Abruptly After Dodd Makes Representation

BERLIN, March 13.—(AP)—The "La Guardia incident" and the United States generally were forgotten today by the government-controlled press. It turned instead to praise of one of Germany's leading military figures, Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, on his fortieth anniversary as a soldier.

Not a line of criticism of America was in the press today, leading to the belief word had been passed around to "lay off."

The abrupt cessation of criticism followed United States Ambassador William E. Dodd's visit to Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath to make representations against German press attacks on the United States.

Sources close to the Wilhelmstrasse said Baron von Neurath informed the American envoy the attacks were not intended to offend.

The foreign minister was said to have told Mr. Dodd some German newspapers, if they exceeded proper bounds in commenting on the New York mayor's remarks about Reichsfuehrer Hitler, did so because of their excitement.

RUNYON

[illegible] would have been free and independent operators and big men had they not been [illegible] to a pay check.

We find the [illegible] of married gentlemen against their wives so general that it is a pleasure to be able to refute it to some extent by presenting the Mesdames Lou Gehrig and Dizzy Dean.

These ladies are the better three-quarters of two of the most eminent exponents of our national pastime, the game of baseball. You may not be a reader of the sports pages so we will explain that Mr. Lou Gehrig is the first baseman of the New York Yankees and Mr. Dizzy Dean is a pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mr. Dizzy Dean is renowned for the fact that he is a right-handed pitcher who thinks left-handed. Mr. Lou Gehrig recently attracted some notoriety by threatening to play the part of Tarzan until he was convinced that the nation can't stand for more than one Tarzan at a time.

THEY ARE careful wives of great value to their respective [illegible]. They are each demanding of their employers a salary for the season of 1937 of $50,000.

We would not suggest that the reader stand on his or her head until they get $50,000 [illegible]. The point is that it has developed that the Mesdames Lou Gehrig and Dizzy Dean are believed to be prompting their husbands in these demands.

Indeed Mrs. Dizzy Dean frankly admits that she is behind her husband, though not, we conjecture, so far behind him that she cannot place a restraining hand on the scruff of his neck any time she deems it necessary.

There is no direct testimony to support the suspicion that Mrs. Lou Gehrig is behind Mr. Lou Gehrig in this matter other than the impression that [illegible] Mr. Lou Gehrig might not be able to think of as much as $50,000.

In any event, here are two wives who are certainly not wedded to a pay check in the sense that the married men we have been talking about are.

Mr. Lou Gehrig can get $35,000 or thereabouts for the season's work from Colonel Jake Ruppert, the affable New York brewer who owns the Yankees.

Mr. Dizzy Dean may not be able to get as much from the owners of the St. Louis Cardinals as they do not have a brewery running for them. But it is our surmise that he can get around $25,000. Is that hay?

Left to their own devices and without the Mesdames Gehrig and Dean, the Messrs. Gehrig and Dean would probably be knocking down partitions to sign their contracts at the paltry wage offered. There is not enough difference between $35,000 and $50,000 to the average ball player to quibble about.

And we must add, that many wives could probably be urging their husbands to accept the terms lest an earthquake befall and destroy the papers.

OF COURSE the Messrs. Gehrig and Dean will eventually adjust their financial differences with their club owners and at the usual reduction in the asking price. It may have happened ere this appears in print.

We only hope that the reduction is not too great to destroy the refutation by the Mesdames Gehrig and Dean of the charge of the married gentlemen that wives in general are wedded to a pay check.

We have always admired the gallant attitude of a married friend of ours by the name of Burke, who is a pretty smart business man, and has had many opportunities to strike out on his own, but who has stuck to the same salaried job for years.

We asked him why, one day, and he said:

"Well, you see, my wife, Veronica, don't like for me to be without a regular salary, and what my wife don't like, I just naturally hate."

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., March 13.—(AP)—Death today ended the long career of Dr. Elihu Thomson, world-famous scientist. Like his friend of many years, Thomas Edison, he won fame as a pioneer in electricity.

TWO MORE BODIES TAKEN FROM MINE

LOGAN, W. Va., March 13.—(AP)—The explosion-shattered MacBeth mine yielded two more bodies today, making 11 brought out of the depths where crews dug their way warily tonight toward seven other comrades crushed under tons of debris.

Earl Gearhart, 28, and his partner, James Wiley, 32, who had been badly mangled, were the only ones reached during the past 24 hours.

The two worked on the machine which H. P. Farley, director of rescue operations, said was believed to have caused the disastrous blast Thursday night by igniting a pocket of gas.

Farley predicted it would be "two or three days" before the other dead were reached, explaining several hundred tons of debris must be taken out and timbers set up as a safety measure.

Families and relatives of the men still in the mine, all of whom Farley said were dead, remained at their homes. Arrangements were made to bury the other 11 tomorrow.

Those still in the mine were:

August Tusek, 41, loader; Jack Tusek, his twin brother; Hubert Fleming, 37, motorman; George McCormick, 27, brakeman; Sam French, negro loader; Roland Karns, 30, loader and Tom Bradocko, 48, loader.

ducers meet competition from the neighbor on the north.

The message to the Columbus dinner follows:

"I want to convey to all of you my very cordial greetings. I wish that I could be with you tonight and talk to you personally. You all know how I love to come down to Georgia and it has been grand to have the perfect weather with which we were greeted yesterday on arrival.

"We all have real cause for a victory dinner. We can celebrate wholeheartedly the progress we have made during the past four years and feel assured that it is but a forerunner of even better things to come.

"With each of us playing his part individually and collectively, we will go ahead with our program for a democracy which will insure a more wholesome and happier life for the nation as a whole.

"In other words we are all striving to make a democracy which will live to serve the people.

"To you, Governor Rivers, and to all of the distinguished guests I send my best wishes and, as a fellow Georgian, celebrate with you in spirit tonight."

The president's executive order limited the importation of Canadian red cedar shingles into the United States to 1,048,262 squares in the first half of 1937.

It was his first official act since starting a two-weeks vacation in this secluded section of rural southwest Georgia yesterday.

He also signed a bill authorizing the commissioner of internal revenue to grant further "reasonable" extensions of time for filing returns under the 1936 "windfall" tax. Under this levy persons must repay to the government processing taxes returned to them by a supreme court order if it is shown they were passed on to consumers.

The president put in most of his second full day here driving about the grounds of the foundation he established for cripples.

He also received Governor E. D. Rivers of Georgia at his cottage on Pine mountain and then drove out to his 2,800-acre farm nearby. Rivers dropped in for a brief chat on his way to Columbus where he was guest of honor tonight at a belated Democratic "victory" dinner.

The action restricting cedar shingles importations was taken under the revenue act of 1936. This directs the president to impose limitations whenever imports of that article in any half year exceeds 25 per cent of the combined domestic shipments and imports in the preceding six months, and when producers representing over 75 per cent of domestic output apply for such limitation.

A temporary White House announcement said the United States Red Cedar Industry, Inc., representing 88.6 per cent of domestic production, requested the import restrictions.

Commerce department figures attached to the order showed imports from Canada in the last half of 1936 were 1,419,747 squares, or 43 per cent of the combined domestic shipments and imports in the preceding six months.

William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, was still at the president's cottage today. He drove out to the Roosevelt farm late in the afternoon with the president at the wheel.

The weather remained quite warm and the chief executive was acquiring a good tan from roughing it out in the open.

AUDITORIUM CAMPAIGN WILL BE EXPLAINED

The auditorium campaign of Leland college, negro institution, in Baton Rouge, will be explained by the president, Dr. J. A. Bacoats, at the negro First Baptist church, North Eighth and Breard streets, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Special seats will be reserved for white friends. The addresses will be broadcast over KMLB.

Dr. Bacoats will tell of the needs of this institution, which is one of the most important of its kind in the state. The sum of $16,000 is being sought to erect a new auditorium, and to provide four additional classrooms.

There are now 791 enrolled in this college of whom 340 reside in the dormitory.

Besides the talk of Dr. Bacoats, there will be an address by James E. Sayle, campaign director.

Negro leaders in Monroe and other cities of the state are endorsing the campaign of this college.

GLY-CAS MADE HIS LIFE WORTH LIVING AGAIN

Neuritis Had Crippled Mr. Bright's Arm Until He Could Hardly Use It; Indigestion And Bloating Made Him More Miserable Before He Began Gly-Cas.

"I knew from the first few doses of Gly-Cas that I had found the very medicine I had been searching for," said Mr. James Bright, Trent, Tex. (near Abilene). "For fifty years my stomach had been an almost constant source of distress. Attacks of indigestion followed many meals I ate, gas would form in abundance and extreme bloating was entirely too frequent. I would often become so short of breath after eating that I could hardly breathe and my stomach would feel like a rock. About the only foods that agreed with me were oatmeal, rice and milk and even they often caused me severe suffering. I finally lost my appetite entirely; foods held no temptation for me at all. Then rheumatism settled over my body and neuritis settled in my arms and shoulders and what I endured then cannot be described in words. At one time I could not raise my arm it was so crippled with neuritis and my entire system was simply full of aches and pains. I became so nervous, couldn't sleep at night and in spite of all the medicine I tried I could not find anything to help me—until I was finally persuaded to give this new Gly-Cas a trial—so many said it was one medicine that was different—and I found it JUST THAT."

"Gly-Cas is a medicine of outstanding merit beyond all doubt," he continued. "It is almost unbelievable the remarkable change this new remedy has brought about in my case. I now eat and enjoy the foods I want without any suffering afterwards. That dreadful rheumatism and neuritis has been eliminated, my nerves are quieted and I can sleep fine the entire night through now. I feel life is worth living again since my health has been restored by Gly-Cas—it is one medicine that is worth a fair trial by everyone."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. —Adv.

PEACE CAMPAIGN MEETING PLANNED

Session Will Be Held At First Methodist Church Tuesday Morning

A public meeting under the auspices of the "Emergency Peace Campaign," will be held in the auditorium of the First Methodist church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a local unit to cooperate in a nation-wide movement on behalf of peace. Civic, educational and religious leaders of Monroe and West Monroe have been invited to attend the meeting, which will be addressed by Samuel E. Donald, field secretary of the "Emergency Peace Campaign."

Mr. Donald, who was in Monroe Saturday making arrangements for the meeting, stated that the purpose of the campaign is to enlist communities all over the country in a general movement to keep the United States out of war. He said that among the chief promoters of the campaign are Admiral Richard Byrd, Charles P. Taft II, son of former President Taft, General Smedley D. Butler, Kathleen Norris, Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick and other liberal leaders of the country.

Mr. Donald stated that "the campaign was initiated by the American friends service committee, Quakers, Philadelphia, which in cooperation with Herbert Hoover and others, administered over twenty-five million dollars in relief and reconstruction in Europe during and after the World war." Since that time this committee has administered other substantial funds in this country. It is composed primarily of business men and educational leaders. It acts as treasurer and exercises general control over the funds of the "Emergency Peace Campaign."

Many homes have been saved and brought back to a life of usefulness. Proper results or money back. Write Western Chemicals Inc., Dept. The quota of the chapter was but $4,000, and the sum was exceeded by a substantial amount.

The chapter went on record as authorizing the executive secretary to prepare a resolution extending thanks to all who aided with contributions for flood relief work.

Judge W. M. Harper, chairman of the Ouachita chapter, voiced the gratification of the board over the prompt cooperation which was given by various sub-committees of the chapter's disaster relief committee during the period when it seemed possible that this section of the state might be faced with a major flood disaster.

Learning From Others' Experience

The souls that come to this sphere today are probably no better in quality than were those that arrived here five thousand years ago. But in some instances the newcomers of today are placed in more desirable surroundings than were the arrivals of past ages; so they proceed through this life under better influences than did the souls of ancient days. The effect is a higher development attained more quickly.

Today the student of the natural sciences can begin at this most advanced point of discovery made by the most learned scientists; he does not have to start in the dark and blunder along making all the mistakes of the past under the instruction and influence of persons who themselves blundered along making all the mistakes of the past. The findings, the instructions, the guidance of the wisest scientists are his.

But in the world of spiritual advancement the situation is somewhat different; the rewards are not so easily discernible as in the world of natural science. The notion that greed, selfishness and indulgence bring benefits and joys persists to an unfortunate depth and a deplorable extent. Under those sorry influences the student of life starts at the beginning of ancient errors and blunders along until sad experience teaches him better. By that time he has usually arrived at the period of departure from this world. By the time he has learned to live, the time has come to die.

Our aim should be to surround each generation with the influences which will as quickly as possible give it the spiritual wisdom, knowledge and understanding acquired by preceding generations.

Every child born into this world should be surrounded by high-grade customs, wholesome practices, constructive education, honest personalities and wise guides. His elders should rigidly require that he be trained from babyhood in the fundamental principles of honorable and capable community and social life that he may not waste any of the valuable hours which are given him here in which to progress.

The awful mess that we and those who have gone before us have allowed matters to get in and stay in, must make the angels weep.

There could be generally great happiness and fine progress in this sphere if the leaders and the students of spiritual matters would show a sizeable fraction of the intelligence and the application manifested by the leaders and the students of scientific affairs.

STARS OF OTHER YEARS

Many a grandmother will brush away a furtive tear upon reading of the scurvy trick which the merciless economics of late years have played with an old-time idol, a fine figure of a man, tall, straight and handsome, who caused the feminine heart to throb and the eye to gleam with admiration as he stalked the boards a quarter of a century ago.

In those days the name of William Faversham was one for the imagination to conjure with. He was the Robert Taylor of his time, a really fine actor and at the same time a personable young gentleman, easy to look upon. His impersonation of the title role of "The Squaw Man" was memorable.

But now, through the irony of events, William Faversham has been installed in the Actors' home on Long Island, his fortune lost, also his capacity to make his own way in life. Reports indicate, however, that even under adverse circumstances and carrying the load of advancing years, he is a figure of dignity and charm and still retains some of his old power to dazzle.

In these days, when there is such great preoccupation with Gable and Garbo, Joan Crawford, Jane Withers and Shirley Temple, it is pleasant to hear a word or two from the theater's old lost stars. It would be more pleasant, however, if we were to hear that they were living in peace and plenty, in a vine-covered cottage, with a brook running by and a few sheep to add a pastoral touch to the scene.

WHO DISCOVERED PLUTO?

Far from the orbit of ordinary astronomical calculation or space measurement is the gripping question, now wrinkling the brows of sky scientists, as to who should get the credit for finding Pluto, the ninth and most recently discovered planet.

The scientists blush because a mere youngster, one Clyde Tombaugh, apprentice student at the Lowell observatory, first detected the new planet in photographic plates, though its presence had already been mathematically proved by the late Percival Lowell.

To a mere layman, any attempt to minimize young Tombaugh's accomplishment will seem somewhat less than just. Nature, after all, recognizes no artificial differences in scientific rank. Her secrets are open to any observant person, who, like Clyde Tombaugh, may be possessed of a sharp eye, a persistent character and an alert mind.

RHYME AND REASON

NEVER TOO LATE FOR BEAUTY

Still there is time for beauty to be heard.
We never are too old for its pursuit.
The spring comes back and, our emotions stirred,
We listen to the violin and flute
Of nature's symphony . . . We feel the beat
Of cosmic grandeur in the burgeoning
Of beauty in our gardens . . . Soon the sweet
Renewal of the earth will speak of spring.

We may be old, but never will our years
Prevent us from enjoyment of this time,
When crocuses come up and on our ears
Falls April's music, joyous yet sublime,
Weaving in patterns beautiful to see
The promises of immortality.

COMMON SENSE VICTORY

By BRUCE CATTON

It is not for nothing that the production of steel is considered the most typical part of the whole American industrial structure.

Steel is hard stuff, and Americans occasionally are hard people—especially those who have to do with the making of steel. And steel now and then has been fabricated in the way the country as a whole was fabricated—with a tough and sinewy drive that cares nothing for obstacles, rides right over criticism, and lets those whose heads have been cracked in the process bind their own wounds.

So this nation, which killed off its Indians with unrelenting ferocity, took what it wanted from Mexico without bothering to think up an excuse, and blew itself to a terrible, four-year civil war because it couldn't agree on a presidential election—this nation, with a hard-boiled record of that kind, has brought up a steel industry with a record equally hard-boiled.

The open warfare of the 1919 strike is still a matter of living memory. The Homestead war of the 90's is not so far away but that it can be recalled without difficulty. And both of those memories confirmed practically all of us in the idea that steel was the one spot in our industry where the law of the jungle was immutable.

With all this as a background, it is hard to tell which is the more surprising: to see the "top company" of United States Steel signing a union agreement, or to hear beetle-browed John L. Jewis publicly extolling the statesmanship and wisdom of Myron C. Taylor.

Neither of these things was in the cards, judging by past performances. According to every precedent, the country was in for a steel strike this spring; similarly, every precedent indicated that it would be a brutal knock-down-and-drag-out affair that would cost a vast sum of money, create a huge amount of ill-feeling, and do the country, as a whole, no good whatever.

The change that has come over the face of the waters is fairly breathtaking; but we would misinterpret it very badly to say, simply, that it was a "victory" for Mr. Lewis, for some specific labor organization, or even for the general idea of collective bargaining.

It may be any or all of those things, in some degree. But, above all, it is a victory for plain, ordinary common sense—a victory in which both sides and the general public share equally.

That is to say that this great industry and the men who work in it are not, this time, going to repair to the nearest vacant lot and club heads until one side or the other has had enough. Instead, they are going to try getting along in harmony; and, as a direct result, steel and its people face the most prosperous era in their long and troublous history.

It is a change as welcome as it is surprising.

A BOOK REVIEW

A GRIPPING STORY OF HISTORY'S SPIES

The spy is one of the oldest and most sinister creatures on earth. He has existed almost from the dawn of history, he has upheld the hand of every tyrant in history, and he has played a part in every war, revolution, and campaign of oppression that has stained mankind's annals. So it is time somebody wrote his biography.

Someone has done it, too: Richard Wilmer Rowan, who has produced "The Story of Secret Service," a sardonic, informative, and amazingly interesting account of some 33 centuries of double-dealing.

"However deeply rooted and inherent the government trait of secret service," remarks Mr. Rowan, "no thoroughly respectable world would tolerate it," and when the millennium comes, he adds, we shall recognize it by the fact that it contains no spies and no secret police.

His book is astoundingly complete. It goes back to the days of the ancient Israelites and Romans, and comes down through the World war; and, as far as I can see, it misses nobody along the way.

Here you will find famous spies and obscure ones, from that incredible Russian double-crosser, Azeff, to the Austrian Redl, who helped his country to lose the World war. Fouche is here; and the grimly efficient Prussian, Stieber, and "Crazy Bet," the eccentric Richmond lady who spied on the Confederates through four years of the Civil war.

Spying, Mr. Rowan remarks, hasn't changed much through the ages. It is mostly a matter of corruption and chicanery, and it is a sure reflection of the degeneration of government. Spying at its worst—through the tyrannical "political police" systems—seems to be more prevalent now than ever before. And that fact, says the author, is a dreary indication of the dark state the world has reached.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

A native out in Perkinsville, Ind., where there is no railroad nor main highway, tells me Kin Hubbard plucked many of his Abe Martin touches of back country comedy while visiting this tiny berg. It has seemed to me the most rollicking and enduring humor comes from the lost places of earth—the up-the-holler and crotch-of-the-creek dots on the map.

Broadway humor is so often vitriolic and mean tempered. The country jake turns the joke on himself, in the manner of Will Rogers, Chic Sale and Bob Burns, and never offends.

Here are some dandy small town names out of Perkinsville—and what a name Perkinsville is for a small town! Bert Lewark, livery stable proprietor and champ cribbage player; Lott Lee, postmaster; Lon Miller (every small town has a Lon Miller), Rastus Van Horn, Emery Neese, Hen Orton, Ligee Brown and Matt Epperson.

Hal Folan speaks at all the school house graduations. "Barbara Frietchie" is his favorite piece. The town's fishermen extraordinary are Shiner Neese and Rube Miller. They know how to catch catfish under rocks with their bare hands.

Every small town, too, had its laziest man who generally lived on the outskirts. His wife hitched the horse to the buggy every morning so he could come into town and get in his share of loafing. He always drove with foot hanging over the side.

Then there was the fellow who was always willing to dive off the roof of the covered bridge if he could get up an audience. Also the expert who was willing to handle the dynamite in stump blastings.

Too, the barber who never worked much but always had money, and the wise cracking local who knew the answers. Not even the smart drummers could kid him, no sir-ee!

Out in a small Illinois town they are called pop-out-at-a-toot girls. They are the lasses who will pop out of the front door at a toot from anybody's car.

Flood aftermath: A woman with a battered suitcase and two small sons at her side walked between the line of gaping but sympathetic onlookers at the station in Indianapolis. Spying a friend, she cried dramatically as she pointed to the two children: "All I have left in the world."

And stated one soberly: "Yes, and we don't amount to much, either."

From a letter: "I have been a practicing physician for 47 years, practicing in the hospitals of two large cities, on the battle fields, in the Brazil jungles and for 19 years in a smaller western city. Surgery has made progress but medicine has stood still since it was first launched as a science. Sanitation lessened yellow fever, not drugs. Tuberculosis if lessened, and I'm not certain it has been, was so effected by a change in living and diet. I have seen a hundred panaceas hailed for this plague and that and soon forgotten. When man is healed every doctor of five years' practice, if honest, knows it is done by nature. Drugs alleviate at times and doctors' words offer rare comfort, but they do not cure. When we learn the mystery of nature we will have mastered the science of healing, and not before."

It strikes me the most satisfactory radio program from a humane and entertaining standpoint is the weekly skit offered by Warden Lawes at Sing Sing. It is not only flecked with drama but it gives some excellent advice to reformed criminals and those thinking of crime careers. And coming from such a source has the stamp of authority. Those sidewalk interviews out of New York by Parks Johnson and Wallace Butterworth are worth dialing for, too.

I turned the other evening to an O. Henry volume and selected at random "The Furnished Room" to read before turning off the night lamp. And I put the book down realizing more than ever why he remains the best of our short story tellers through the years.

The full horror of the Ohio valley floods are just seeping to light. I have a letter from a harried woman victim. After six days of sleepless despair in which she and her husband saw their home and every personal belonging washed away, they reached what she thought was a cabin. Then at breakfast one morning she noticed her husband was talking strangely. Five hours later they were taking him away in shackles to the state asylum—hopelessly insane.

One of the worst follow-ups of the river floods are the slides. The river banks are weakened and suddenly cave in with great cracks like earthquakes. When the water recedes and the ground gives way in these sudden swoops it leaves vast gullies of death and disaster. Many hundreds were just able to flee from their homes in the very nick of time. Some entire towns are reported in danger.

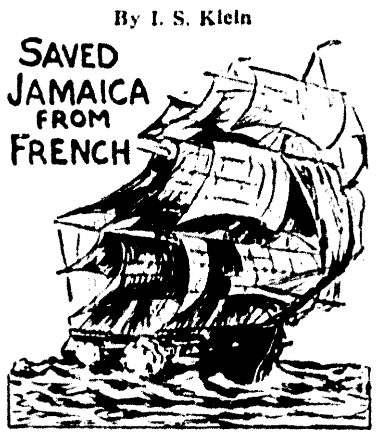
SAVED JAMAICA FROM FRENCH



THE American Revolution was nearing its climax in 1782, when France sent additional troops and ships across the Atlantic to help defeat the British. Cruising the West Indies, Count Francois de Grasse, French admiral, came upon a fleet of 30 warships under command of Admiral George Brydges Rodney.

They fought for nearly 12 hours, and when the French hoisted the white flag Rodney had lost nine ships and 600 men, while nearly the entire French fleet was disabled. Some 3000 troops being transported by the French ships were killed, and 6000 were wounded, while De Grasse himself was captured. The victory saved the island of Jamaica for the English, and prolonged the American Revolution by delaying Cornwallis' surrender.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Four important intestinal infections still attack great numbers of human beings in the United States, but all now can be controlled. The gradual elimination of one of them, typhoid fever, is considered one of the most notable achievements of modern preventive medicine. The other three conditions are cholera, the dysenteries and hookworm disease. Of them all, typhoid fever once was by far the most important.

Typhoid fever is an infection by a germ called typhoid bacillus. The cases are of all grades of severity. Some are so mild that they hardly interfere with the victim's daily activities while others may cause death.

One of the former types is a condition called "walking typhoid." In this disease the germ often can be found in the blood and, in 80 per cent of all cases, may be found in great numbers in the stools or excretions from the bowel.

• • •

Typhoid fever occurs all over the world most often in warm weather, although epidemics occasionally appear even in winter.

In most instances persons become infected by taking contaminated water or food. Symptoms appear 12 to 19 days thereafter.

Typhoid fever is not primarily a children's disease such as measles, scarlet fever, or diphtheria, but rather one which mostly concerns grown-ups.

In 1900 typhoid fever was fourth among infectious diseases in the number of deaths that it caused. Today it is 12th. In fact, at least five persons die every year from automobile accidents to one who dies from typhoid fever.

Although typhoid has been brought largely under control, it is not to be considered a vanishing disease. It will not disappear until all our communities have learned the value of real sanitation.

From 60,000 to 65,000 people still get typhoid fever every year, and each year there are about 6,500 deaths from it. It is important, nevertheless, to remember that enough control has been established to diminish the disease and death rate tremendously.

• • •

To illustrate the splendid progress made, if there were in Chicago this year proportionately the same number of cases as occurred in that city in 1890, there would have been 65,000 deaths of typhoid fever in Chicago alone, rather than in the whole United States.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Aspirants for presidential nomination in 1940 are not entirely relieved by Roosevelt's assurances that he looks forward to retiring to private life on January 20, 1941.

They won't be entirely happy until the president gives them a signed affidavit, couched in solemn language, officially sealed and riveted on the White House front door.

Roosevelt said at the Democratic "Victory Dinner" here:

"My great ambition on January 20, 1941, is to turn over this desk and chair in the White House to my successor, whoever he may be . . ."

But there are those who predict that when the time comes, the president may feel himself unable to realize that "great ambition." They fear—perhaps in some cases, pretend to fear—that he will feel the country needs him desperately. And so they're whispering that his statement is comparable to the rather enigmatic remark of Calvin Coolidge: "I do not choose to run."

There seems to be no sound basis for supposing at this time that F. D. R. has any thought of seeking a third term. Suspicion appears to rest chiefly on the tradition that no president has ever been happy at leaving the White House, even after two terms.

Presidential intimates scoff at the thought. Some already are busy speculating as to Roosevelt's 1940 successor, if not actually laying unobtrusive groundwork for certain candidates. They say there isn't any more reason for supposing Roosevelt harbors third-term ambitions than there is for paying serious attention to suggestions Mrs. Roosevelt might succeed him. Mrs. Roosevelt herself branded that last idea as "idiotic." The mere fact any such phantasy reached such a point that it was raised at one of her press conferences, amply demonstrated that people do get some funny political ideas into their heads.

Dig It Up, Bury Again

Speaking of what must seem to most folks like squirrel-cage economics:

Men are digging frantically down into the ground for gold. Last year the total gold production was 4,329,273 ounces, an increase of 17 per cent over 1935.

The treasury paid $35 an ounce for this gold. But then, all it did was to bury the yellow metal in the ground again, some 30 or 40 feet down in its vaults at Fort Knox, Ky.

Lots Of Lobbyists

Joe Davies was about the only conspicuous Democratic lobbyist who didn't serve on the committee sponsoring the $100-a-plate Victory Dinner. Joe Tumulty, Woodrow Wilson's wartime secretary, who has made considerable wealth lawyering and lobbying here, was chairman and toastmaster. He sat right next to Roosevelt. Power companies, lobbying against Roosevelt's pet holding company bill, hired Tumulty and paid him $25,000 in a single year. Others among the 30 hosts on the Victory committee included Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, and O. Max Gardner of North Carolina. All three worked for utility companies opposing the holding company measure. All were members of the Democratic national committee before Roosevelt decided such posts were incompatible with their activities. Other lobbyists on the dinner committee included Donald Richberg, former Assistant Attorney General William Stanley, Swager Sherley and Bruce Clagett, son-in-law of Senator McAdoo.

A senator, who gets around the White House a lot, tells this Roosevelt anecdote:

Joseph E. Davies, the newly appointed ambassador to Soviet Russia who had recently married the $200,000,000 Post Toastie heiress—Mrs. Marjorie Hutton—was discussing his job with the president. They got to the point where Davies asked:

"Well, now, what do we do about that Russian debt?"

"Well, Joe," replied the president as if in all seriousness, "Why don't you and Mrs. Davies assume it?"

NOTED LAW INSTRUCTOR WILL LECTURE AT L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 13.—(Special)—To present lectures before the law school and the general public, Walter Wheeler Cook, famous authority on jurisprudence and conflict of laws, will visit Louisiana State university Monday. Under the sponsorship of the law school and graduate school he will lecture on "The Study of Law: Theory and Practice," to the law students, and on "Law and the Sciences" before the public. The open lecture will be in the university theater at 8 p.m.

At present professor of law at Northwestern university, Professor Cook was formerly professor of law at Yale university, and more recently active in directing the work of the Johns Hopkins Institute of Law. He has been president and at one time secretary of the Association of University Professors and one of the outstanding leaders in the fight for academic freedom throughout the United States.

His address on Monday evening will discuss principally the applicability of the scientific method to the study of law and to the problems arising from legal and judicial reform. His background of experience both in teaching and in his work at Johns Hopkins university, and subsequently with the federal government, make him one of the best qualified men in both theory and practice to discuss problems of this nature.

KOLLEGE KAPERS TALENTED GROUP

Will Be Here For Performance On Thursday, March 18

Three talented members of Kollege Kapers, the Centenary college revue, are Allen Prickett, vocalist; Virginia Rathbun, vocalist, and Dana Dawson, Jr., master of ceremonies. The production will be given at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium March 18, at 8 p.m., sponsored by the Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist church.

The 1937 edition of Kapers has been acclaimed throughout several states as by far the best in the series for the past four years. The show is entirely different from that of past years.

It opens with an introduction of the leading members of the cast, which includes 30 persons. Then follows a beautiful Japanese overture by the band.

A three-act playlet, with scenes centering around 1937 college life, is sandwiched in between skits. There are a gypsy reading, piano and specialty numbers, antics of three comedians and tap numbers.

The final 20 minutes finds the 11-piece orchestra providing the musical background for Betty Lane Grigsby, Allen Prickett, Virginia Rathbun, Hall McCord, Parry Stewart, Ruth Richards and other entertainers.

Shirley Simmons, newcomer to the organization, has held her audiences with her splendid rendition of a beautiful gypsy story.

It is hoped to have a large audience present when Kollege Kapers is presented here Thursday night.

'Civic War' Rages Between Two Natchez Garden Clubs

By Harold M. Case

NATCHEZ, Miss., March 13.—(Special)—A state of "civic war" has been declared in Natchez by officers and members of the rival pilgrimage organizations, the Natchez Garden club and the Pilgrimage Garden club, both making preparations for their annual "garden pilgrimage" to the celebrated ante-bellum mansions of the "old south" in and around the environs of this historic old river city.

Sponsored by the Pilgrimage Garden club, the 1937 pilgrimage of the organization of which Mrs. Hubert Barnum is president and Mrs. Balfour Miller is director, will open its pilgrimage on March 14 and continue through March 21. This pilgrimage is known locally as "The Home Owners Pilgrimage" because homes in the original pilgrimage are on these tours.

Then comes the sixth annual tour of the original Natchez Garden club, member of the Federated Garden clubs of Mississippi and affiliated with the National Council of State Garden clubs. This pilgrimage will begin March 28 and continue through Easter week, to April 4, at which time old and new homes will be thrown open to the pilgrims expected here from throughout the nation for both of the pilgrimages.

But that isn't the story. There's nothing new about the pilgrimages. That's ancient history. The pilgrimages have been held for the past six spring[illegible]s and draw thousands of visitors to see the "old south" with its romance, ante-bellum homes, tableaux, balls and various entertainments. This year with two pilgrimages and with the rival factions "at war" apparently outsiders and local citizens predict that one of the organizations will suffer. Both clubs claim they are the "original pilgrimage club." Local sympathies are divided.

The Garden club's headquarters which up to now had been located in the Eola hotel moved out because the other club had moved in. The Pilgrimage Garden club has opened its headquarters in the hotel, and the Natchez Garden club moved across the street to another location. No reason was given by the Garden club for changing headquarters.

At the same time, the Natchez Democrat issued its annual "Pilgrimage Edition," a special 46-page edition printed on pink newsprint and containing individual articles by Mrs. Edith Wyatt Moore, an officer of the Natchez Garden club on the history of the old homes. The Democrat diplomatically gave each club a part of the edition, "plugging" first the sixth annual pilgrimage of the Natchez Garden club Easter week with a footnote that the homes on the Pilgrimage would not be open for any other Pilgrimage this year. The theme of the Garden club is "Come to Natchez where the old south still lives and where shaded highways and ante-bellum homes greet new and old friends." This year the club has been using a folder designed by Mrs. Moore with the slogan "Step Into the Past With Natchez," and "It's Springtime in Natchez."

The Pilgrimage Garden club is using the same theme "Come to Natchez Where the Old South Still Lives." They also add the note that the houses on the tours of the Pilgrimage Garden club will not be open to visitors for any other Pilgrimage this year.

All in all there are 36 homes open on the two tours, with several new homes being opened for the first time by the Natchez Garden club to take the place of the home owners who switched to the Pilgrimage Garden club group.

As an added attraction the Natchez Garden club will open its new civic contribution "Connelly's Tavern on Ellicott's Hill." This is the place where Aaron Burr and Blennerhassett held secret conclaves in 1807. This ancient inn on the Natchez Trace, was built prior to 1795 and has been restored by the Natchez Garden club and will be opened for the first time during the sixth annual Pilgrimage of the Garden club. The aim and purpose of the Garden club, it is pointed out, is the preservation of historic sites in Natchez. It adopted as its major project, Ellicott's Hill. In 1797 Andrew Ellicott, George Washington's personal friend, was sent to Natchez to determine the boundary between Spain's possessions and the fledgling United States. In defiance to Spanish authority, he unfurled and officially raised "Old Glory" in the breeze and when ordered to take it down he replied: "It can stand there till it rots, but I will never haul it down." This historic event will be commemorated on March 30 by a pageant on Ellicott's Hill by the members of the Natchez Garden club.

Other features of the Natchez Garden club pilgrimage will be the famous Confederate ball given each year by the club, a candlelight musicale in the "House of a Thousand Candles," historical events and colorful pageants. Spirituals will be sung in old fashioned negro churches.

The Natchez Garden club points out that Natchez is the scene of Stark Young's "So Red The Rose," a famous novel and screen success. Mansions, churches, plantations, roadways, river scenes, described by Mr. Young, may be seen on the Pilgrimage tours.

The war is on. Some say it's the beginning of the end. But nevertheless both clubs have a record list of reservations. The pilgrims are coming, not to see the "warring factions" at battle, but to see the old homes.

ANNIVERSARY OF LEGION TUESDAY

Post And Auxiliaries Over Nation To Observe 18th Birthday

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 11.—(Special)—The American Legion will celebrate its 18th birthday Monday and Tuesday, March 15 to 17, with one of the greatest parties in its history.

Thousands of legion posts and auxiliary units will meet on Tuesday night, March 16, to present special birthday programs, to tune in on the nation-wide legion birthday broadcast and to celebrate a 1937 enrollment expected to be near 800,000 members, the largest membership the legion has ever rolled up on its anniversary date and within sight of the goal of 1,100,000 members for this year.

For the legion's membership slogan in preparation for this huge party is "Every Post, District and Department Over the Top on the Birthday!" The birthday objective is 800,000 members, which would be 150,000 more than the legion had on its anniversary last year.

Dramatic Radio Program

The nationwide American Legion birthday broadcast will go on the air from 10:30 to 11 p.m., eastern standard time, Tuesday, March 16, over the blue network of the National Broadcasting company. This time corresponds to 9:30 to 10 p.m., central standard time. Posts everywhere are urged to obtain radio receivers for their birthday meeting so that all may listen in on this dramatic program.

Many posts are planning to send out the announcements for their March 16 meeting in the form of birthday greeting cards.

The American Legion auxiliary units everywhere will participate in the birthday celebrations. In many communities the legion posts have assigned to their auxiliary units the task of providing birthday cakes for the party. Each cake will have 18 lighted candles.

Countless other posts are featuring special membership birthday gifts to their commanders. They are working hard to be able to present their commanders with the cards of 18 new or renewing memberships each.

Paris Caucus

It was on March 15, 1919 that 1,000 representative officers and enlisted men of the American expeditionary force assembled in Paris, France for the purpose of laying the foundation of an association of American World war veterans similar to those of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans following the Civil war. It was at this caucus which lasted three days that the American Legion was born. The caucus was called to order by Eric Fisher Wood. One of the first official acts of the caucus was to adopt a resolution eliminating all consideration of rank or precedence in the deliberations of the body. Bennett C. Clark, now United States senator from Missouri, was chosen as temporary chairman, and the caucus then proceeded to outline the tentative aims and purposes of the new organization and adopted a temporary constitution.

Named By Gordon

The caucus had some difficulty in deciding upon a name for the society of American World war veterans. All sorts of names were suggested and rejected. Then Major Maurice K. Gordon of the 36th division proposed the name "The American Legion." The name clicked and was adopted. Mr. Gordon, who has the honor of having named the legion, now lives at Madisonville, Ky., where he is practicing law.

An executive committee of 100, of which the late Milton J. Foreman of Chicago, was chairman, was assigned the job of completing the organization in the A. E. F. and arranging for another caucus to be held in America at which the work of organizing the legion would be finished. A sub-committee of 17 was chosen to return to the United States immediately to promote interest in the legion among the troops that did not get overseas.

Success crowned all these efforts with the result that at the second caucus held in St. Louis, Mo., May 8, 9 and 10, 1919, with delegates of ex-soldiers from every state in attendance, the work of putting the American Legion on a permanent basis was completed and the legion was launched on its career of service to God and country.

KIWANIANS URGE FLOOD CONTROL

Rayville Organization Asks Congress To Appropriate $60,000,000

RAYVILLE, La., March 13—(Special)—A request for an appropriation by the present session of congress of $60,000,000 to carry on the present season's work in carrying out the provisions of the Overton bill for flood control is embodied in a resolution adopted by the Rayville Kiwanis club at its meeting this week. The resolution was offered to the Kiwanis club by Colonel John W. Summerlin, president of the Tensas Basin Levee board, who has just returned to Rayville after directing the fight against high water along the Arkansas river during the recent emergency.

The resolution, which was adopted unanimously, follows:

"Whereas, this year's midwinter superflood in the Ohio river has produced a major flood in the middle and lower sections of the Mississippi river, surpassing all other save that of 1927, and practically equalling the latter as to discharge and volume, although, fortunately, no material additions were contributed—as they might have been—by the tributaries other than the Ohio, and

"Whereas, neither the Eudora floodway, the Morganza floodway, nor the auxiliary outlet at the lower end of the Atchafalaya basin, west of Berwick bay, have been completed, and

"Whereas, these extremely important features of the adopted plan of flood control have been approved for inclusion, and provision made for their construction under the terms of the Overton bill, senate 3,531 (public No. 678—78th congress); and, the safety of the city of New Orleans and of the entire alluvial valleys of the Mississippi and the Atchafalaya rivers is being jeopardized as long as these essential features of the plan remain unfinished, and

"Whereas, it is a stipulated condition of the adopted plan, as amended and revised, that no payments will be made for the flood control works involved in these particular parts of the general project, or no work started upon same until not less than 75 per centum of the value of the flowage rights and rights-of-way for levee foundations shall have been acquired, or options or assurances, satisfactory to the chief of engineers obtained therefor in the Eudora and Morganza floodways, and until the outlet in the lower Atchafalaya, west of Berwick bay, shall have been located and the lands necessary for its construction acquired.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Kiwanis club of Rayville, La., urgently requests the secretary of war, the chief of engineers and the Mississippi river commission, on the part of the federal government, and the Louisiana flood control and water conservation commission, the several local levee boards concerned, the board of state engineers, and such other official and civic bodies within the areas affected as may be in position to render service, on the part of the local interests, to cooperate to the very fullest extent within their power and to exert themselves to the limit in advancing, by all possible means and at the earliest possible moment, any and every move necessary to circumvent delay or clear away all obstacles to the immediate undertaking of these badly needed projects. And since the bureau of the budget has recently recommended appropriations of $30,000,000 for the omnibus act and $22,500,000 for the Overton act, for the present fiscal year, and since these amounts fall so far short of what is needed for the purposes of these acts, in the light of the fact that in 1928 an assumed superflood for the Ohio river was one that was equivalent to the flood in that stream during 1913 and that the recent great flood in the Ohio exceeded the 1913 high water by approximately 20.6 per centum.

"Therefore, be it further resolved, that our senators and representatives in the congress of the United States be requested to urge that the above mentioned amounts be increased to at least $30,000,000 for the omnibus act and to at least $60,000,000 for the Overton act to carry on the present season's work and that said flood control projects be continued under the direction and supervision of the army engineers as is now being performed without interference on the part of any planning board or advisory board created for other purposes."

ACHIEVEMENTS OF WILLYS CO. CITED

Sensational New Models Prove Popular Both With Public And Dealers

The 11th week of production of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., brought the 20,000th 1937 Willys off the line here last week, a De Luxe sedan which was delivered to a retail buyer as it rolled off the line under its own power.

This was a distinct achievement in the program of Willys-Overland since the company's original schedule, calling for 60,000 of the current models has been stepped up twice to a present schedule of 83,000 cars.

January saw a total output of 6,588 cars, against 4,020 in December, a gain of 64 per cent, while February brought an additional increase of 30 per cent over January with 8,599 cars, bringing the total output up to 19,207 new Willys cars as of February 27. Schedules are being increased almost daily at both Toledo and Los Angeles plants.

Records of owners of this car are claimed to show gasoline mileage up to 35 miles to the gallon. Oil consumption is also stated as being unusually low. Speed up to 70 miles an hour is claimed as a low estimate of the performance ability.

Distributor coverage in the United States market has been completed in all key distributing cities, and many applications for distributor contracts for smaller points are now awaiting acceptance.

Dealer points covered, under distributor contracts, total in excess of 1,700 with all distributors reporting many dealer applications awaiting action.

Production from the Toledo plant covers the entire United States west to the Salt Lake City distributing area, and all exports, while production at Los Angeles covers the Pacific coast and Mountain states.

Officials of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., have frequently stated that the Willys car has a natural market in the average American income field where the monthly earnings approximate from $150 to $200. This classification covers about 90 per cent of the entire income producing population of the country.

The highest priced car in the Willys line, a completely equipped De-Luxe sedan model is priced $119 below the next lowest price De-Luxe sedan on the American market. Attractive finance plans have been developed through which the down payment, where the original payment covers one-third of the delivered price of the car at point of delivery, is from $25 to $55 below the next lowest down payment, and monthly payments are available as low as $20. This new low monthly payment schedule is almost $6 below that offered on any other make of new car.

Further economies for the owner in the average income classification, are revealed in average monthly operating costs which show an advantage in favor of the new Willys of from $2.00 to $5.00 a month, depending on amount of driving done.

Public acceptance of the new Willys struck a high point at the original presentation of the car, and this acceptance has been steadily mounting.

Dealer orders show a wide spread in varying types of customers. Especial attention is being given to the Willys by buyers of fleet equipment because of the low operating costs and the reputation of the car for sturdiness.

The average automobile owner seems to have conceded the point of superior economy to the Willys without debate and is giving economy as an initial reason for buying the car.

Other reasons advanced refer to the new styling of the car which is somewhat ahead of other stream line developments, to roominess of the body, in which the Willys shows greater seating width in the front seat than any other low priced car, and equal or greater width in the rear seat than any other, with one exception.

The low price of the car is a generally accepted reason for purchase with the advantages in this particular point increasing as the buyer starts to make his purchase on the basis of the De-Luxe types.

Retail dealers have the advantage in the new Willys of one chassis and two body types each, in the standard and the De-Luxe models. The two bodies are the coupe and the four door sedan. The De-Luxe models, in both bodies have added equipment over that included in the standard models, and offer a selection of six colors and two types of upholstery.

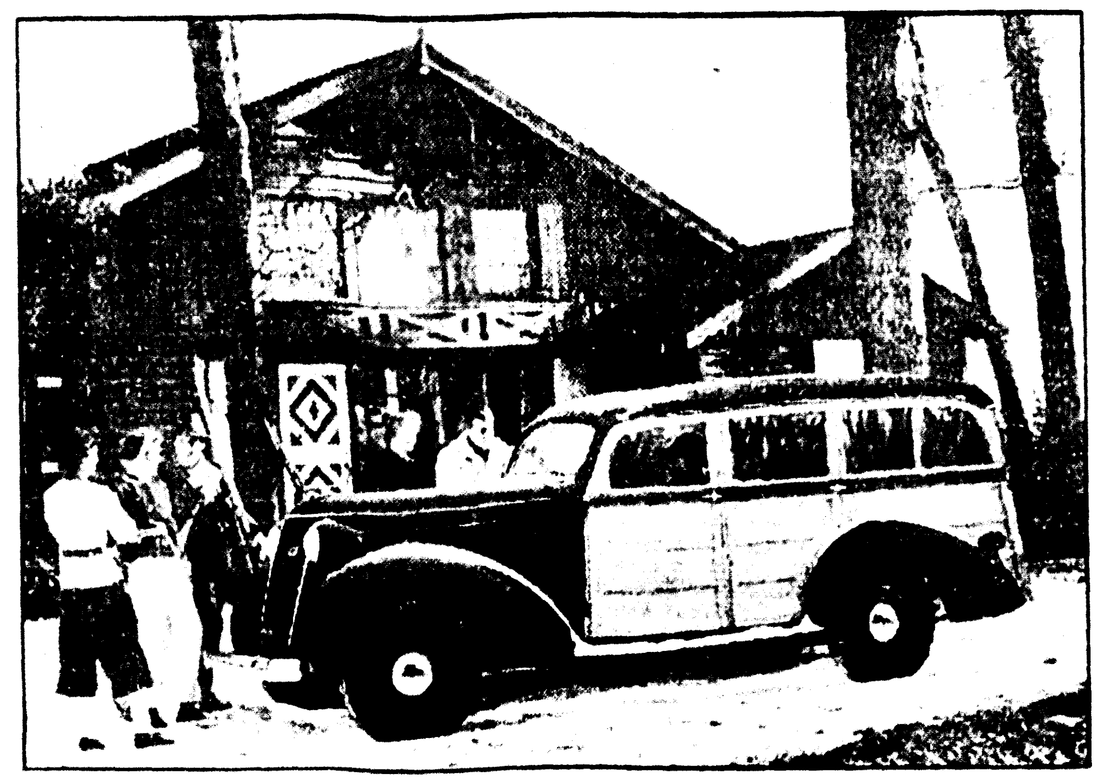
STUDEBAKER SUBURBAN CAR POPULAR MODEL



The scene above illustrates just one of the many purposes for which the new Studebaker Suburban Car is ideal. Constructed on the same popular chassis as the Coupe-Express, this new utility car is finding popularity with resort keepers, owners of estates, suburban residents and many others who find this type of dual-purpose vehicle a time and money saver.

EYES SHOULD BE EXAMINED OFTEN

Dr. T. A. Brulte Recommends Eyes Be Examined At Least Once A Year

"The eyes are the receiving sets for the great majority of impressions that come to us from the outside world and in order to enjoy life to the full and to do good work we must give our eyes the special care they need. Individuals should have their eyes examined at least once a year," declared Dr. T. A. Brulte, with whom is associated Dr. H. C. Hughes in the practice of optometry at 323 DeSiard street.

"The eye is one of the most delicate as well as one of the most important organs of the body," he said. "Its function is vision. It is impossible to conceive of this function apart from light. If we shut out light, as we do when we close our eyes, we cannot see. If we are blind, light means nothing to us. Vision and light are inseparable. For comfort and efficiency in seeing it is important to have proper light for the work the eyes must do," Dr. Brulte pointed out.

The necessity of having the eyes examined at least once a year was explained by Dr. Brulte when he said that sometimes a person wears glasses long after the difficulty for which they were prescribed has been corrected, or after the eyes have changed so much that they need different assistance.

"The periodic re-examination of eyes for which glasses have been prescribed will indicate when the lenses need changing," Dr. Brulte said. "Lenses which are not exactly right or frames which do not hold the lenses in the proper position may cause great harm. Glasses should be cleaned frequently, and when not being worn should be kept in a case or at least place so that the lenses do not come in contact with any surface which might scratch them.

"The correction of visual discomfort may improve the general health and increase the working efficiency of the person concerned," Dr. Brulte continued. "Accidents and projected eyestrain which result from even slight visual impairment may also be avoided. Eye trouble which is due to defects in the structure of the eye, producing farsightedness and nearsightedness, may often be remedied by wearing the proper glasses," Dr. Brulte said.

MOTOR RECHECK REAL ECONOMY

Car Checked Every 10,000 Miles Saves Owners At Least $80 A Year In Gas

The owner of an automobile who takes the trouble of having his car overhauled at least every 10,000 miles, saves at least $80 a year on his gasoline bill alone, not to mention other substantial savings in oil, wear and tear, and is assured of getting the best performance from his car, according to G. F. Becker, general manager of United Electric Service, Inc., located at 306 North Third street.

"Few automobile owners realize the work which is performed by the motors in their machines," Mr. Becker pointed out. "The following are some of the reasons why car owners should arrange with automotive experts to check their automobiles at least every 10,000 miles. In operating the average car 10,000 miles the contact points open and close 90,000,000 times; each spark plug fires 15,000,000 times, the coil delivers 90,000,000 charges of 15,000 volts each; spark plug cables deliver a total of 1,350,000,000 volts; the carburetor mixes 2,810,000 cubic feet of air with 825 gallons of gasoline; the distributor shaft and rotor revolve 15,000,000 times; the fuel pump pulsates 15,000,000 times; speedometer cable revolves 10,000,000 times, each valve opens and closes 15,000,000 times. These figures may appear grotesquely large, but automotive experts have proved them time and again and they are correct. This explains why check up and inspection are necessary at least every 10,000 miles," Mr. Becker declared.

United Electric Service, Inc., specializes in expert automotive work and invites automobile owners to use this service which is entirely free. Car owners should drive their automobiles to United Electric Service, Inc., and have their cars checked and estimates furnished without cost. Even if automobiles are found to be in good condition this free service gives the owner the satisfaction of knowing that his car is in good condition.

"To have our automotive experts check an automobile at least every 10,000 miles is an investment in economy for the owner," Mr. Becker asserts. "An automobile will lose in its performance so gradually that the owner will not be aware that his car is deteriorating. Mileage will drop from 18 miles to 11 miles per gallon. Friction causes wear and tear of the motor and loss of oil with consequent higher lubrication bills. Late timing in cars causes motors to run at high temperatures and waste considerable power and oil," Mr. Becker said.

"There is no need to take chances, as the United Electric Service, Inc., with its completely equipped automotive unit and staff of experts, is glad to check all cars without cost. Our experts in this line of work will place their finger on the trouble and will enable car owners to greatly lengthen the life and good performance of their cars. Owners of automobiles who take the trouble to have their cars checked at least every 10,000 miles may expect to get at least 100,000 miles from their car, and at the end of that period can command a much higher trade-in value than the careless owner who, when he has driven his car 50,000 miles, considers his machine ready for the junk pile," Mr. Becker concluded.

DISTRICT NURSES ELECT OFFICERS

Miss Edith Farris Again Named President; Convention Delegates Chosen

The Monroe District Nurses' association met at St. Francis sanitarium recently for the purpose of holding their biennial election of officers and to elect delegates to attend the meeting of Southern Division Nurses' association which meets in New Orleans April 1-3.

The following officers were elected for the 1937-38 period: Miss Edith Farris, president, re-elected; Miss Camille Lockwood, secretary; Mrs. P. E. Weldon, treasurer; Miss Opal Cobb, first vice-president; Miss Jimmie Cobb, second vice-president.

The following were elected delegates to the convention in New Orleans: Miss Opal Cobb, Miss Gladys Austin and Miss Jimmie Cobb. These delegates will be headed by Miss Edith Farris, president of the Monroe District Nurses' association.

The private duty section of the Monroe District Nurses' association is trying to establish the eight-hour system of nursing in this district. It was pointed out that this system is being successfully used in other districts of the state.

Miss Jimmie Cable, chairman of this body of nurses, said that the eight hour system is important for the following reasons.

"To the patient: Eight-hour duty means improved nursing service, security against a tired, over-worked nurse and contact with a broader, more interesting and cheerful person.

"To the doctor: It means better nursing care for his patients, contact with a nurse who is alert, efficient and interested in her patient.

"To the nurse: It provides opportunity for a normal life, a better spaced working year, fewer periods of enforced idleness because she feels too tired to go on call, and time for professional reading and study."

It was announced that fees of private duty nurses have been restored to the schedule prevailing before the depression, $7 for a 12-hour day and $4.50 for an 8-hour day.

D. C. Black, Director of Education and Music

At the morning hour the pastor will speak on certain conditions that make it imperative that we heed the warning of the prophet Amos to "Prepare to Meet Thy God." There was never a day in the history of the human race when eternity-bound men needed more than now to be aroused to the awful conditions that drown men in perdition, despoil womanhood and defile childhood. We need prophets today instead of silken-gloved, pink-tea preacherettes who mumble mild sermonettes in the stifling odor of cigarettes. "The Gift Divine" (Kirkpatrick) will be the special presentation by the choir under the direction of Mr. Black. All departments of the Sunday school are working hard on their attendance toward the goal of 1,000 in Sunday school by March 21. The men of the church will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock for a free get-together luncheon to consider plans for the next major step in the building enterprise. All men of the church are urged to come. At the evening hour the pastor will speak on "Think Not That Thou Shalt Escape." THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
George H. Dierlamm, Minister

Services at [illegible] at 11 a.m. and at Mt. Nebo at 3 p.m. The minister will discuss for his subject "The Prayer Life of Jesus." Consider the characteristics of the prayer life of Jesus. It was real. Even our Lord needed the quiet place of prayer. Remember the agony and the bloody sweat in Gethsemane. Fosdick says, "This was the real battle, not a dress parade." Jesus expected reality in the prayer life of others. He bitterly condemned the hypocrisy of vain repetitions and [illegible]. The prayer life of Jesus was constant. In times of stress and heavy strain He spent hours in prayer on some lonely mountain side. Yet the Master was always in the spirit of prayer. For Him, prayer was the upward glance. It has been said of St. Francis that he became prayer. Jesus was prayer! Sir Walter Rauschenbusch said when praying: "When I am in the consciousness of God my fellowmen are not far off and forgotten, but close and strangely near." Prayer for Jesus was not a selfish ecstasy; it was a social experience. He lifted the whole world of His interest up to the throne of grace. He named specific individuals: "Peter, I have prayed for thee." Through prayer Jesus tapped the creative energy of God. He thus found power to do the daily will of God in healing and teaching. He had meat to eat others knew not of. Through prayer Jesus was able to overcome Satan and to accept the supreme sacrifice of taking the cup and the cross. Would it not be better for us in these days to follow Jesus so that we may prepare ourselves to meet the challenge of the hour?

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Sunday is called Passion Sunday, because the services begin to relate the story of our Lord's sufferings and death. The Atonement is pre-eminently the theme of the day. Christ is exhibited as our Great High Priest, and from now on until Easter the Lamb of God, dumb before His shearers, is the engrossing object of wonder, of worship and of love. Oh, how amiable would be the tabernacles of the Lord, if only all kept the holy day in the spirit and with the understanding of the inimitable service of the church this day! From now till Easter the devout churchman enjoys a soul full of spiritual meat. He goes in and out, and finds pasture with the Good Shepherd, and beholds, in all the glory of His wonderful humiliation the patient Lamb of God. Services for Passion Sunday are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m.; Church school at 9:30 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock; evening song and instruction on Church catechism at 7:30 p. m. The rector will hold service in Saint David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p. m. O Saviour of the world, Who by Thy Cross and Precious Blood hast redeemed us; Save us, and help us, we humbly beseech Thee, O Lord! The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth, life and love are substances, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen'" (p. 468).

MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, MARCH 14, 1937

SPORTS CHATTER

By George V. Lofton

A BIG ASSET

"Baseball is giving Greenville more nationwide publicity than any project undertaken in the last three years."

That is what an officer of the Greenville Rotary club told his fellow members in urging their support of the baseball club this season.

We often have wondered if the value of a baseball franchise to a city like Monroe, for instance, is fully understood. And particularly under the present setup here.

Dick Burnett already has spent approximately $5,000 here in cold cash. For the past two weeks, some forty youngsters have been attending a baseball school out at Casino park. That's added business, of one kind or another, for local merchants. Starting March 21, about fifty ball players, members of the Monroe and Texarkana squads and players who will be given trials for the two teams, will be here for spring training. Those players must eat and sleep; they'll buy cigarettes, cold drinks, clothing of one sort or another, and hundreds of other things that local merchants sell.

There has been no passing of the hat here, and there won't be. Mr. Burnett only asks that Monroe support his ball club by turning out for the early games. The ball club will do the rest.

"If fans of this section will give us a chance to 'sell' our ball club," he said recently, "I'll be satisfied. I don't promise a pennant winner but we'll be up there. If the public will only come out and see what we have to offer, I'm sure the local venture will be a complete success."

There's the dollars and cents angle to it that means much to this community. To us, the fact that Mr. Burnett is bringing baseball back to Monroe is enough to assure all the support we can possibly give him. So far, it looks like he'll get the wholehearted cooperation of the citizenry as a whole.

So let the slogan be:

"Baseball's back—back baseball."

TIME MARCHES ON

Old Father Time has swished his scythe a couple of times at a dozen or more major league baseball players, but apparently they are oblivious to the breeze created by the old man and his grass cutter.

Some of these ancient gentlemen took up their baseball chores about the time the DiMaggios were humming "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," to young Joseph, and Mr. Feller was popping his vest buttons because a lad named Bob had made his appearance on the doorstep out in Van Meter, Iowa.

For instance, there's Jimmy Dykes, fit and 40. Jimmy is getting ready for his 21st American league campaign. At 39, Frankie Frisch declares he'll play a bit of second base for the Cardinals this season. Lefty Grove is 37, but nobody has heard about his retirement after 18 years in organized baseball. Like wine and memories, Goose Goslin, too, gets better with age. Last year he hit 24 homers and led his Tiger teammates in runs batted in with 125.

It will be interesting to watch the antics of these gray-beards this season. Right now, they tell us that Goslin and a young fellow named Al

COLUMBIA TRACK TEAM WINS TITLE IN INDOOR MEET

Ben Johnson Paces New York School To Victory In Intercollegiate Event

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP)—Dominating half the dozen varsity events, Columbia's sensational track and field team easily clinched its first indoor intercollegiate A. A. A. A. team crown tonight before a crowd of 12,000 in Madison Square Garden.

The light blue forces, paced by the negro sprinter and jumper, Ben Johnson, outscored all rivals, and ended the three-year title reign of Manhattan college.

Johnson beat his Syracuse foe, Marty Glickman, by a foot in the 60-yard sprint final, in the record-equalling meet time of 6.3 seconds, after bettering his own broad jump mark with a leap of 24 feet, 1-8 inch.

Columbia's point total, 23 5-14, after completion of eight events, was beyond the reach of any rival team. Manhattan had 14 3-7 points.

Johnson, after setting a new mark of 24 feet, 1-8 inch in the broad jump, paced the trials in the 60-yard dash with a semi-final victory in 6.3 seconds. This created a meet standard for the distance.

Jack Donovan of Dartmouth, clipped the meet record for the 60-yard high hurdles, for the second time, when he won his semi-final test in 7.5 seconds.

The shotput developed a novelty, a tie for first place between Danny Taylor of Columbia and Jimmy Zaitz of Boston college, at 50 feet, 9 5-8 inches, another new meet record.

Manhattan college's mile relay team, defending the title won over the 1,600 meter route last year, had a close call in the trials. The Jasper anchor, Dick Lundell, dropped the baton on the take off but recovered in time to clinch the third and last qualifying place behind Princeton and Columbia.

Colgate won the second trial heat in a breeze, with Dartmouth and Georgetown next.

Manhattan's captain, Lou Burns, collared Peter Bradley of Princeton with two laps to go and won the mile run handily from his Tiger rival, by five yards, in 4 minutes, 20.5 seconds. The winner's team-mate, Bob Hoolahan, took third place with Cornell's John Meaden a close fourth and Jim Rafferty of Fordham fifth.

Syracuse's ace foot-racer, Eddie O'Brien, needed all his finishing "kick" to withstand a sensational stretch challenge from Howard Borck of Manhattan and win the 600-yard run.

O'Brien's time of 1:31.1 was nearly two seconds behind the world indoor record but established a meet mark for the event, which was run on the I. C. A. A. A. A. program for the first time.

A great closing sprint by Edgar

Tigers To Be Threat If Pitchers Come Through

Cochrane Believes Detroit Club Will Give Yankees A Close Race

By Paul Mickelson

LAKELAND, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Holding that Tiger is going to be some job even for the New York Yankees this year if Mickey Cochrane, head man of the jungle cats, can tree two more good starting pitchers.

With big Hank Greenberg back and definitely as good as ever and Cochrane behind the plate again, the Tigers certainly should match the Yankees in power and speed. The only worry is pitching and Mickey's got a hunch he's going to get that.

Tommy Bridges and Schoolboy Rowe, who won 42 and lost 22 between them last season as the Tigers finished fast to nail second place, are Mickey's only dependables. The other five or six pitching jobs are as wide open as the prairie for a man with stuff. Vic Sorrell and Elden Auker, who may or may not be all washed up, will be carried as Mickey so far can't find any one good enough to beat them out of regular assignments.

Most promising of the rookies right now is Bob Logan, a southpaw from Thompson, Neb., via Indianapolis. Logan, 27 years old and a bit aged for a rookie, has a fine assortment of stuff, can field and has learned how to keep the ball away from right handed hitters. It is quite certain that he'll stick with the Tigers.

George Gill, a right hander obtained from Beaumont, Clyde Hatter, 28-year-old recruit from Milwaukee, where he won 16 for the American association champs, and Paul (Dizzy) Trout, "most talkative man in all baseball today," round up the other important prospects.

Cochrane is quite keen on Trout although the young righthander didn't exactly set the world on fire last season with Indianapolis. Cochrane, rid of his nervous trouble, has bet $100 with owner Tom Yawkey of the Boston Red Sox that he'll catch 100 games this year, and may win his bet. Helping him behind the plate will be the steady, reliable Ray Hayworth again with George Tebbetts, up from Beaumont, the probable successor to Cochrane as soon as he gets a little polish. Tebbetts appears to be the answer to Mickey's prayer for backstop relief.

The infield, now that Greenberg is back, offers no great worry except for third base. Rudy York, a terrific hitter, may be tried at third because Cochrane wants his hitting. Greenberg will occupy first, Charlie Gehringer second, Bill Rogell shortstop and Rookies Gilbert English and Wimley Wilburn around for reserve duty. Marvin Owen, a weak hitter, will be around plenty and undoubtedly will wind up on his old perch at third.

Cochrane has almost decided that the veteran Al Simmons can't play centerfield and probably will let Al and Goose Goslin battle it out for the left field post. If he gets the hitting he is quite sure to get he may use the fleet footed Jo-Jo White in centerfield to knit the defense. That would leave Pete Fox and Gerald Walker chief candidates for the other garden position. The best guess is, however that Simmons, Fox, Walker and Goslin will take care of all the outfield gardening between them.

Most noted change on the ball club is the temperament of Cochrane, himself. Mickey seems to have licked his jumpy nerves completely and is as contented and carefree as a well-fed tired business man on his front porch.

"That rest I had last year was what I needed," explained Mickey. "I feel fine and ready for a big season."

ONE-ARMED PLAYERS TO HOLD BASEBALL SCHOOL

ATHENS, Ga., March 13.—(AP)—Baseball skeptics will have the opportunity of seeing that a one-armed man can actually play short stop when Bill White, one-armed former university of Georgia baseball coach, takes a team of one-armed players into spring training at Douglas, Ga., Sunday.

White has assembled a number of former baseball players with only an arm apiece. For three places on the team he has players with two arms, at first and third base and behind home plate.

He said he has a pitcher who Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, once said could win in any class A league. He is Orville Paul. White says the only reason he isn't in the big time is because no team will take a chance on a one-armed man.

Others on the unusual nine include Ralph Dorsett, pitcher from Atlanta; Burtis Humphrey, Cullman, Ala., infielder; Eddie Hartley, Florida, outfielder; Rex McEaching, Bonifay, Fla., outfielder; Wilson Jordan, Natchez, Miss., pitcher; Judson Wood, Apex, N. C., infielder, and Neal Harris, Brantley, Tex., hurler.

White said his one-armed team already has nearly 100 games scheduled.

PLANS MADE FOR WOMEN'S MEET

Golfers From 15 States To Compete In Southern Golf Tournament

ATLANTA, March 13.—(AP)—Golfers for 15 states and the District of Columbia are eligible to compete in the 26th annual championship of the Southern Women's Golf association at the East Lake Country club here May 17-22.

States included in the association are Georgia, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia, Alabama, Florida, Maryland, West Virginia, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Texas will be represented in numbers and talent. Two former southern titleholders, Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite and Betty Jameson, are expected, along with Mrs. Dan Chandler and two promising young golfers, Jane Hopkins of Dallas and Kathryn Pearson of Houston.

Mrs. Dean Stacey of Oklahoma City, the state champion, Mrs. Estelle Drennon and Mrs. Ann Kennedy Parish of Tulsa and Mrs. Tom Wallace of Sapulpa are leading Oklahoma club swingers.

Arkansas' titleholder is Mrs. Connally Henson of Little Rock. Mrs. Sam Israel, Jr., of New Orleans was Louisiana's best in 1936. Mississippi can boast of two former southern champions, Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh of Vicksburg, who won the state crown last year for the sixth time, and Mrs. John Armstrong of Jackson. Marion Miley, Kentucky's pride, was in England last year with the Curtis Cup team and did not play in the state meet.

Mrs. Willard Johnson of Louisville won the title.

Mrs. Bee Cockrell of Gadsden is the Alabama champion. Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, just 17 years old, has won the Georgia title for the third time. Florida has three excellent golfers in Mrs. Mary Rogers Brantley, southern champion in 1935; Frances Owen, state champion, and Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews.

Tennessee has no state organization. Mrs. Dave Gaut, president of the Southern association, sponsors an open tournament annually at the Memphis Country club. This was won a year ago by Kathryn Hemphill of Greenville, S. C.

The game Thursday night will be battled out between two evenly matched teams selected from the spring training squad. The teams are being drilled as the "Whites" and the "Blacks," and will be in good form to put on the regulation game Thursday.

MATTHEWS KNOCKS OUT WILLIAMSON IN SECOND

TALLULAH, La., March 13.—(Special)—Oscar Matthews, Tallulah's negro heavyweight sensation, returned home today from Galveston, Tex., where he knocked out big Jim Williamson, 198 pound Chicago negro, in the main event of the Lions club boxing show Thursday night.

Matthews put away Williamson in the second round of their scheduled 10-round battle. It was the north Louisiana slugger's 18th knockout in his 21 fights as a professional boxer.

Matthews will return to Galveston within the next two weeks to meet Big Ben Benson, 244 pound negro heavyweight champion of Texas, in a 10-round match. If Oscar beats Benson, he will be in a spot to get some attractive offers, Jimmy Yeates, his manager, said tonight.

Matthews made a big hit in Galveston by his showing in the Williamson bout and boxing officials and fans of the Texas resort city expect the Tallulah boy to be a big drawing card there.

STRONG TEAMS TO COMPETE IN TWO-DAY EVENT

Farmerville And Sicily Island May Be Late Entries; Many Awards

The fifth annual district boxing tournament opens here Friday afternoon at the Neville High school arena with eight teams already entered in the meet and the possibility that two or three more aggregations will file entries in the next couple of days.

Teams already entered, and their probable number of boxers are: Tallulah, 10; Oak Grove, 8; Forest, 9; Bastrop, 9; Monticello, 8; Lake Providence, 12; Kilbourne, 7; and Neville, 12. Farmerville High school, one of the strongest teams of the district, is expected to enter a full team, along with Sicily Island High school.

Visiting boxers will be accommodated by the Neville High School Athletic association as long as they remain in the tournament. Meals will be served free of charge for mittmen, coaches and principals at the Neville cafeteria and arrangements are underway to find over-night accommodations for teams coming from considerable distances.

Three trophy cups and 24 individual medals will be awarded. A large trophy will go to the aggregation winning the most points as a team. The teams compiling most points in the lightweight division, from 90 pounds to 126 pounds, and in the heavyweight division, 135 pounds to unlimited weight, will also get trophies. Winners of individual championships will be awarded gold medals. Silver medals will go to runners-up in each classification.

Coach Percy Brown of Neville was in Baton Rouge yesterday to secure the services of the same officials who handled the district fights last year. They are Willard Brown, stellar welterweight boxer; "Blondy" Bennett, colorful announcer; and "Hickey" Higginbotham, head of intramural sports at L. S. U.

Competition at the tourney, which opens Friday afternoon with weighing in and drawings at the Neville gymnasium, is expected to be exceptionally keen this year with practically every team entered having several mittmen capable of winning titles.

Bob Fairly of Tallulah and Buck Brantley, Neville, stand out as the district's most capable 90-pounders, while Forest has several 90-pounders to select from, especially Yates, Sullivan and Arnold.

Heading the 98-pounders will most likely be Leon Andrews, Farmerville, who was runner-up for the 90-pound title last spring, and Homer Erwin, Tallulah. Bastrop has a good 98-pounder in Milam, and Rix of Oak Grove is good.

Mitchell Brasher, Farmerville, 98-pound champ last year, is expected to enter the 105-pound class along with the stellar Kenneth Nettles, Tallulah; Neville's Anthony Danna; and Posey, Oak Grove.

David White, Bastrop, stands out this year as the district's best 112-pounder, but he will get tough competition from Horace Clark, Farmerville, who was state 105-pound champ last year, Massey of Kilbourne, and Lasuzza of Neville.

In the 118-pound class, Fred Edgerton, Tallulah, and Marvin Spaugh, Neville, loom as good championship timber, but Farmerville and Bastrop have stellar scrappers in that weight.

The veterans Harry Deal, Tallulah; Ernest Pierce, Neville, and Hansford Holloway, Farmerville, are probably the best 126-pounders. All of them were point winners at last year's meet.

135-pounders expected to rank high are Billy Wyly, Lake Providence; C. Staneart, Oak Grove; Carl Frazier, Farmerville; and Vaughan Payne, Neville. Louis Nettles, Tallulah; Dick Davis, Lake Providence; Lawrence Dean, Farmerville; and Howard Earl, Neville, are expected to be the best of the 145-pounders.

John Ed Rabun, Farmerville, has paced the 155-pounders this season, but can expect trouble from Harper, of Kilbourne, and Walter Brady, of Neville.

In the weights over 155 pounds, the competition is expected to be limited, with stellar mittmen appearing in the battles of the heavies, however. J. R. Patterson, Jr., Farmerville, and Perry Snyder, Neville, look good as 165-pounders; Malcolm Lightsey, defending light heavyweight champ. of Lake Providence, stands alone in his class, but can expect trouble; and Sam Whatley, also of Lake Providence, appears another sure point winner in the heavyweight class.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

WHITE SOX

PASADENA, Calif., March 13.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes will use as many pitchers as possible tomorrow when his Chicago White Sox oppose a movie company team in the Sox' first game of the spring camp season. John Rigney will start on the hill for Chicago, with Luke Sewell catching. Next week Dykes will start sifting his squad preparatory to farming several rookies.

DODGERS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Manager Burleigh Grimes is thinking of filling his Brooklyn Dodger catching needs with Outfielder Randy Moore. The Texas flychaser wants the job and has been backstopping during the training camp batting practice sessions. Outside of pitchers, Grimes' major need is an able receiver to help Babe Phelps carry the catching duty, and he'll be anything but dissatisfied if Moore turns out to be the answer.

PHILLIES

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Dolph Camilli, holdout first baseman, may lose a pay increase contained in his 1937 contract if he fails to report to the Philadelphia National leaguers before the team returns to Philadelphia, Gerry Nugent, club president, said today.

Camilli is reported to be in his home in Sacramento, Calif. He is the Phillies' only holdout.

TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Rudy York, hard-hitting recruit infielder, drove in three runs today enabling Manager Mickey Cochrane's team to beat Cy Perkins' team, 4 to 2, in an intra-club game at the Detroit Tiger training camp. Outfielder Pete Fox might have caught York's long fly had he not lost the ball in the sun, but it was a lusty wallop.

CUBS

AVALON, Calif., March 13.—(AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm, irked at rainy weather which has given his Chicago Cubs only one full day of practice, plans to "bear down" Sunday and throughout next week. With the arrival in camp of Frank Demaree, who signed for a reported $13,500 after several weeks of bickering, Grimm has a chance to concentrate on the big Bruin problem, building an outfield.

YANKS WHIP BEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The New York Yankees, opening their "grapefruit" season competition, picked up today where they left off in the 1936 world series and hammered Boston Bees' pitching for 18 hits and a 13 to 4 victory.

While a trio of rookies, Steve Sundra, Kemp Wicker and Jim Tobin were letting the Bees down with nine hits, "murderers' row" hammered the ball all over the lot, climaxing their run-making with five in the fourth and three in the seventh.

BROWNS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 13.—(AP)—A rookie and a second-year man are slated to divide pitching duties as the St. Louis Browns go against the Minneapolis Millers of the American association in their opening spring training game at New Braunfels tomorrow.

Julio Bonetta of Des Moines and Slim Kimberlin, who was with the Browns last season, both right-handers, will do the hurling, Manager Rogers Hornsby said tonight. They will be backed up by Jim Bottomley at first, Gerry Lipscomb at second, Bill Knickerbocker at shortstop and Hornsby at third, with Joe Vosmik in left field, Mel Mazzera in center and Ethan Allen in right. Benny Huffman will be the starting catcher.

INDIANS BEAT PELS

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—(AP)—Jeff Heath, 21-year-old outfielder, made a strong bid for a regular place in the Cleveland Indians' lineup today when he knocked out a home run, a double and a single in three times at bat to lead the Indians to a 10 to 8 victory over the New Orleans Pelicans.

Heath's home run came in the seventh inning with the Indians one run behind and with Julius Solters on third base.

SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—A six-inning regulation game today between two teams from the Washington Senators' squad resulted in a 6 to 1 victory for the aggregation headed by Frank Hogan over that of Ben Chapman. Cecil Travis collected three straight hits for the Hogans and Johnny Stone whacked out a home run with one on.

ATHLETICS

MEXICO CITY, March 13.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics' batting bogged down today and they took advantage of errors to nose out the agriculture team in twelve innings, 7 to 6.

The Macks won the game on Chubby Dean's triple and a pair of his plays in the third overtime frame.

REDS

TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—With President Powell Crosley, Jr., on the field, the Cincinnati Reds staged their second intra-club training game today, the "Kellys" winning from the "Sheehans" 13 to 1 in six innings.

CARDS SHADE GIANTS

HAVANA, March 13.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals got to Clyde Castleman for a pair of runs in the seventh inning to nose out the New York Giants, 4 to 3, in the first "grapefruit league" battle between these National league rivals.

Eleven thousand fans turned out in Tropical stadium to see the Gas House Gang come from behind after Hal Schumacher and Cliff Melton had held them in check from the second inning through the sixth. They had worked Schumacher for the first two runs in the opening frame.

Lon Warneke, Ira Smith and Bill McGee divided the Cards' mound assignment and were touched for a total of 11 hits. The Cards collected only seven safeties.

Manager Frankie Frisch, pinch-hitting in the seventh, drove in the tying and winning runs with a single over second base.

PIRATES

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 13.—(AP)—Defying slippery footing caused by a 24-hour rain, the Pittsburgh Pirate batterymen held a long drill today. Thirteen infielders and outfielders, en route to the camp, were scheduled to arrive Monday. Paul Waner, league batting champion, remained in Florida with his holdout dispute unbroken.

PICARD AND REVOLTA WIN 4-BALL PLAYOFF

MIAMI, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The Henry Picard-Johnny Revolta habit of winning the $4,000 international four-ball golf matches proved too strong today for Tony Manero and Lawson Little and the youngsters won the tournament for the third consecutive year with a 4 and 3 victory in an 18-hole playoff.

Revolta and Picard, steady as a railroad schedule, took the lead on the first hole and were never headed in their drive to the $1,000 prize that went to each member of the winning team. Little and Manero collected $500 each.

Earnings of the four finalists also were upped a $52 each as they shared in today's gallery receipts.

Tall Picard, who hails from Hershey, Pa., closed out the match in spectacular fashion. He stood on the 15th tee and cracked the ball to the green 212 yards away and a scant two feet short of the pin. Manero and Little, their cause practically hopeless after they had missed the green, played their chip shots, missed putts and conceded the match.

BURNETT SEEKING ANOTHER CLUB TO COMPLETE 'CHAIN'

Rain Halts Tech-Baseball School Game; Four Regulars Expected Tuesday

Eighteen youngsters who have been taking the Hock-Windle baseball course out at Casino park for the past two weeks were rewarded with contracts in organized baseball last night, Dick Burnett, general manager of the Monroe and Texarkana clubs, announced late yesterday. The players signed:

Outfielders—William Horn, Stamps, Ark.; Herbert "Country" Hampton, Monroe, and James Bryant, Holly Springs, Miss.

Catchers—John Mazur, Newark, N. J., and James Brownlee, Calhoun, La.

Mr. Burnett announced yesterday that he expects to close negotiations today for a club in a Class D league, and it is expected that most of the players signed from the baseball school will be sent to that club, he said. Possibly two or three will join the Monroe squad, with several others going to Texarkana in the East Texas league. Acquisition of the Class D club will give Monroe two farm teams.

Yesterday's game between the baseball school and Louisiana Tech was rained out after two innings had been played at Tech field in Ruston. Hardin hurled the two innings for the school and did not allow a hit. The baseball school got two hits off Jeffcoat, Tech starter, in the two innings but did not score.

It was announced yesterday that three Californians, Ed Hickson, an infielder; Paul Lother, an outfielder, and Ben Brown, a pitcher, had been signed for the Monroe club by Bennie Bensmiller, a scout for the local club. They will report here Tuesday or Wednesday.

Although spring training for the regulars doesn't start until Monday, March 21, at least four "varsity" players will be here by Tuesday and others are expected to drift in during the week. "Gabby" Lusk, a hard hitting outfielder who has been here since January 1, will start working out Monday. Bill Vandenberg and Jim Reninger, pitchers, and Eddie Campbell, a shortstop recently purchased from the Batesville club of the Northeast Arkansas league, will arrive some time Monday.

Daily workouts will be held at Casino park next week, with the 18 players remaining over for the baseball school and those regulars who report forming the squad. When spring training opens on March 21, approximately 50 players will be here.

Three games will be played with Tech next week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

J. Walter Morris, president of the Cotton States, East Texas and Evangeline leagues, will officially open his offices here Monday. Mr. Morris has been here since Thursday night and has been occupying office space with the local baseball association since then. The league offices will be on the eighth floor of the Bernhardt building, with the local offices adjoining.

NATIONAL A. A. U. CAGE TOURNEY OPENS TODAY

Dizzy Asks To Be Placed On Voluntary Retired List

OILERS FAVORITES IN ANNUAL BATTLE FOR COURT TITLE

All-America Stars And Olympic Players Included On Competing Clubs

By Loudon Kelly

Forty-six teams from 23 states will battle in the 30th annual National A. A. U. tournament, opening at 2 p.m., tomorrow in the Denver auditorium.

They will test their speed, stamina and shotmaking skill in this cage equivalent of a six-day bicycle race until two are left to clash for the national championship Saturday night. One defeat means elimination.

Eight games are scheduled for tomorrow's opening program.

From Monday through Wednesday games will begin in the morning and continue until near midnight.

These games will clear the way for Thursday's "bargain night" when the eight teams still left in the running will tangle in the quarter finals.

Eight teams are seeded, two of them college outfits—Long Island university and the Central Missouri Teachers.

The seeded independent clubs include the four outstanding favorites, the Bartlesville, Okla., Oilers, Hollywood Stars, Denver Safeways and Kansas City Trails, as well as the Colorado Springs Antlers and Oakland, Calif., Golden State.

Ten teams, in addition to the seeded teams, drew first round byes.

Fourteen college teams are in the field.

The national championship is vacant, as the McPherson, Kas., Refiners, 1936 winners, did not enter.

All five of last year's all-America players will return—Omar (Bud) Browning, Joe Fortenberry and Jay Wallenstrom with Bartlesville, Carl Knowles with Hollywood and Bill Wheatley with the Denver K. C. Life.

Among approximately 500 players are nine members of the Olympic team, including Fortenberry, Knowles, Wheatley, Jack Ragland, Francis Johnson, Carl Shy, Duane Swanson, Frank Lubin and Art Mollner.

Tomorrow's round will present such reportedly strong teams as the Amsterdam, N. Y., Mohawks, South Bend, Ind., Brakes, Slaton, Texas, Oilers, Southern Oregon Normal and West Texas Teachers.

Teams getting opening round byes, in addition to the seeded clubs, are, Winston-Salem, N. C., Sparks, Walla Walla, Wash., Mitchells, Cincinnati, St. Louis Foods, Virginia champion, Denver K. C. Life, St. Louis Royal Hearts, Milwaukee Harvesters, Penn Athletic club and the 124th Field Artillery, Chicago.

There will be no Louisiana teams competing when the National A. A. U. basketball tournament opens at Denver today.

The Gaylords of Bogalusa, who won the Southern A. A. U. championship last year, and the Brown Paper mill club, of Monroe, were eliminated in the Southwestern A. A. U. tournament at Dallas last week. No Southern A. A. U. tourney was held this year.

Brown was a favorite in the Dallas tournament but was eliminated in the semi-final round. The Brownies were members of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. league this season.

CISTOLDI MEETS BASHARA TUESDAY

Rough Match Booked For Main Event At Stadium; Wycoff, Rothberg Signed

Ellis Bashara, the Oklahoma "bad man," will be brought here Tuesday night to see what he can do about Angelo Cistoldi, the Boston roughhouse artist, in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium.

Cistoldi has been out-roughing all opponents for the past month and Bashara, who was the reigning villain at the stadium for several months, will be brought back to see if he can tame the Bostonian. The promoters promise a rough match.

For a contrast, Doug Wycoff, former Georgia Tech football star, and Abe Rothberg, the New York Hebrew, will wrestle in the semi-final match. Rothberg made his local debut last week by winning a preliminary match in straight falls with scientific methods. Wycoff also sticks pretty well to the straight and narrow path, so Tuesday night's semi-final match is being billed as a "clean" encounter.

Cistoldi's latest victory was won from Hank Matheney, veteran toughie from south Africa, in the main event of last week's show. Previously he beat Gus Damascus twice and Wycoff.

Bashara hasn't appeared here in two months and when Cistoldi began bowling over his opponents there was some demand for the Oklahoman by fans who wanted to see what he could do against the burly Bostonian.

BOXING AT ISLAND

SICILY ISLAND, March 13.—(Special)—The Sicily Island boxing team will meet the Oak Grove team at the Island gymnasium Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock. The Island team also has a match scheduled with the Mangham(?) Tigers in Sicily Island on March 19 at the same hour.

NORMAL STARTS TRACK WORKOUTS

Demons To Present Well-Balanced Cinder Squad In Meets This Season

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 13.—(Special)—With the return of five members of last year's varsity squad and eight graduates from the freshman ranks, the Louisiana State Normal college Demon trackmen began their spring training period this week for an intensive season which will send them into a relay carnival, four dual meets and a conference tilt.

Although Coach Harry Turpin lost two stars from the 1936 squad, Woodrow Turner of Springhill, distance man, and Charlie Meadows of Merryville, hurdler and high jumper, he stated today that the 1937 squad presents a well-balanced team and that if the team continues to improve he plans to enter several men in the annual relay carnival at Southwestern in Lafayette on March 27.

Lettermen on the 1936 team returning this year are Marvin Wyatt of Winnfield, pole vaulter, sprinter and hurdler; Clifton Thomas of Natchitoches, sprinter; James Austin of Mooringsport, distance man, Melton McGee of Martin, high jumper, and Douglas Williamson of Coushatta, 440 and 880-yard dash man. Wyatt, who twisted an ankle early this week in the basketball game with Murray Teachers of Kentucky at Bowling Green, has not been able to make the practice periods this week and may not be in shape for the Southwestern relays.

From the freshman ranks of last year Coach Turpin has Steve Hoonan(?) of Waterproof, sprinter, Frank Poe[illegible] of DeRidder, sprinter, javelin thrower and hurdler, Gordon Wiggins of Waterproof, distance man, Walter Ledet of Abbeville, weights, John Elkins and Tom Elkins of Harris[illegible], weights, Julian Scott of Natchitoches, javelin, hurler and middle distance man, and Donald Shaw of Haughton, middle distance man. Ross Parker of [illegible], a transfer from Magnolia A. and M., a javelin thrower.

In addition to the relay carnival at Lafayette late this month the Demon tracksters are scheduled to meet Louisiana College at Louisiana Tech at Natchitoches, Southwestern at Lafayette and Stephen F. Austin at Nacogdoches, Tex., in dual meets. The Normal trackmen will also enter the annual S. I. A. A. meet at [illegible] Ruston(?) late in the season.

ONE UPSET SCORED IN BERMUDA TENNIS

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 13.—(AP)—Florence LeBoutillier of Westbury, N. Y., one of the seeded players in the women's singles, was an upset victim in the first round of the annual Bermuda tennis championships today as the men's and women's singles got under way.

The Bermuda veteran Gladys Hutchings defeated Miss LeBoutillier, 3-6, 6-4, 9-7 for the day's only surprise. Other visiting stars headed by Frankie Parker, Walter Senior, Charles Harris, Art Hendrix and Wayne Sabin in the men's division and the defending champion, Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France, Helen Fulton, Norma Taubele and Helen Pedersen in the women's came through with decisive victories.

Miss LeBoutillier took the first set when her opponent was slow in getting started but in the later sets the Bermudian played a more steady game [illegible] forcing her to lose [illegible] total.

TIGER NETTERS BEAT WINNSBORO

Neville Drops First Two Matches But Sweeps Remainder Of Program

The Neville High school tennis team defeated the Winnsboro High school Falcons 10 to 2 here yesterday morning on the courts at Forsythe park.

The Falcons won the first two singles matches on the program, upsetting Billy Beudet, No. 1, and Noel Learned, No. 2, but the locals swept through the remaining matches to score an easy victory.

Both featured singles matches and the No. 1 doubles match were the hardest fought games on the card. Beudet, meeting McLemore of Winnsboro, lost the first set, 7-5, [illegible] the second set by the same [illegible]. McLemore, however, [illegible] the edge, 6-4, in a hard set to win. Then Noel Learned, No. 2, put up a stubborn battle with McCann, Winnsboro, losing the first set, 6-4, winning the second, 2-6, and losing the last, 6-4.

But Beudet and Learned teamed up against McLemore and McCann in the No. 1 doubles for revenge. The Tigers won the first set, 7-5, lost the second, 2-6, and took the third, 6-4.

Results of other matches were as follows, with the visitors listed first:

Singles: Hooper lost to Herbert Marshall, 6-0, 7-5; Butler lost to Seeman Marx, 6-3, 6-3; Ferrell was beaten by J. H. McCl[illegible], 6-2, 6-0; Svetlecic lost to Gangster, 6-1, 6-2; Eppinette was defeated by Grigsby, 6-0, 6-0; and Lang lost to Stanley Mintz, 6-1, 6-1.

Doubles: Hooper and Butler were beaten by Marshall and Marx, 6-1, 6-4; Svetlecic and Farmer forfeited to McClendon and Gangster; Eppinette and Lang lost to Mintz and Grigsby, 6-2, 6-2.

Neville is scheduled to go to Alexandria next Saturday for a return engagement with the Bolton High school netters who beat them here recently, 8½ to 2½.

JOE PETRALI SETS SPEED MARK FOR MOTORCYCLES

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Joe Petrali, Milwaukee motorcycle racing champion, streaked over the smooth beach here today at the highest speed ever attained by man on two wheels, 136.183 miles an hour.

Two world straightaway records fell beneath his assault made on the long strip of packed white sand where Sir Malcolm Campbell once set an automobile racing record.

Petrali rode a huge streamlined motorcycle with a piston displacement of 61 cubic inches both ways over the measured mile for the 136.183 mile average.

DEAN SEES LITTLE CHANCE TO AGREE ON SALARY TERMS

Cardinal Ace Tells Of Recent Interviews With St. Louis Owner

BRADENTON, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, the talkative right-handed pitcher, said today he plans to ask Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis to place him on the voluntary retired list for 1937.

"I don't think there is a chance in the world of reaching a salary agreement," said Dean, who says he won't pitch for St. Louis next season for less than $50,000.

Ole Diz declared he would file his application with Judge Landis within 10 days, asking that it be granted to permit him to form other business connections during the year and possibly pitch exhibition baseball.

Nevertheless, Dean donned a Cardinal uniform today and worked out at Sarasota with the Boston Red Sox.

The pitcher had two conferences with Sam Breadon, St. Louis president, at Daytona Beach this week but apparently made little progress.

"Breadon hiked his offer from $22,500 to $25,000," Dean said, "but that made him only half right because my price for pitching this season is $50,000."

The hurler added Breadon told him he was glad he knew where Dean stood and probably would make some deals.

"Well, you had better go ahead and make some," Dean said he told Breadon.

Dean said Breadon "tried to belittle me" by asking what other players drawing $[illegible] and $10,000 would think if the club paid him the salary he demanded.

"I keep [illegible] being classed with lower bracket players," he declared.

"Mr. Breadon asked me if I was going to cut off my nose to spite my face by refusing $25,000. I replied by asking him if he was going to cut off his nose to spite his face because of [illegible] [illegible] $25,000 to $50,000."

Dean said the club president was [illegible] the Cards could win the pennant without him.

Ruffing Wants An Extra Thousand For His Hitting

'Red' Says Pinch-Hitting Is Worth It; Ruppert Turns Back On Holdouts

CHICAGO, March 13.—(AP)—Big Charles (Red) Ruffing, one-half of the New York Yankees' holdout problem, is perfectly satisfied with the salary offered for his pitching services—but he insists his pinch-hitting bat is worth an additional $1,000 to Colonel Jacob Ruppert.

Ruffing, whose right arm contributed 20 victories to the Yanks' rollicking rush to the American league and world championships last season, set his jaw today and said he wouldn't sign a contract unless he gets paid for a .293 batting average, a good part of which was acquired in hitting for others.

"I mean it," he growled as he wrestled with his income tax report at his home here. "I'm going to be paid for hitting or I'll sit right here and stick it out if it's the last thing I ever do.

"Whenever they need a pinch-hitter, they call on me first," he proceeded with his side of the salary argument. "Joe McCarthy must think I'm pretty good or else he wouldn't call on me. But what do I get for it? I won a couple games for other pitchers with hits last year and they said [illegible] But that doesn't [illegible] salary.

"I help them win games with my bat, and they get paid on the basis of how many games they win. So why shouldn't I get something for hitting?"

Ruffing modestly admitted the Yanks probably could get along without him, but he was positive they couldn't do without him at the bat [illegible] [illegible] Lou Gehrig.

"Maybe they don't need me," he [illegible] "but I can't see how they [illegible] get along [illegible] Gehrig. They've got to have my hitting."

RAJAH WOULD PAY GEHRIG, NOT DEAN

No Pitcher Worth $50,000, Says Hornsby, But Larruping Lou Deserves It

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 13.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby isn't the man with the checkbook in either case but if he were, Lou Gehrig would get $50,000 a year and Dizzy Dean wouldn't.

"No pitcher is worth $50,000 to my way of thinking," the St. Louis Browns' manager flatly explained today in discussing the salary demand of Dean, the St. Louis Cardinals' obstinate ace.

As for the hold-out first-baseman of the New York Yankees, Hornsby declared: "If there's one guy in baseball that is entitled to [illegible] a year, it's George."

Hornsby himself, during his days as one of the leading batters in the National league, made $40,000 and more a year with the Cardinals, the New York Giants, the Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs. He now gets $[illegible] a year as the Browns' manager.

The rajah took his stand against Dizzy's [illegible] because Dean figures in [illegible] one-fourth of the games and [illegible] three-fourths of the season somebody else must be [illegible] the winning games before the club can cop the flag.

NATCHEZ INDIANS HOLD FIRST PRACTICE TODAY

NATCHEZ, Miss., March 13.—(Special)—The Natchez Baseball association's club, the Natchez Indians, is reorganizing for the 1937 diamond season. The club this year will be under the management of Richard Sanguinetti and Raemond Brown, well known semi-professional infielders and star performers of the Tribe teams for several seasons past. Aiding the managers in scheduling contests during the season is Harold M. Case, former business manager of the Indians, who will act as secretary of the association and will have charge of arranging the schedule of games to be played at Liberty park.

The management announces the initial practice of the season will take place Sunday. The candidates wishing to try for the club are requested by Managers Sanguinetti and Brown to meet them at the park at 2 o'clock Sunday for the workout.

AMOUNT OF POOR COTTON LARGER

Drouth Caused Unnecessarily High Per Cent Of Untenderability

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—Last year's drouth caused unnecessarily large proportions of untenderable or below middling cotton in the southwest cotton section, according to the department of agriculture. Of Oklahoma's crop, 40.4 per cent was untenderable; of Arkansas, 10.4 per cent; of Louisiana's, 6.9 per cent; and of Texas, 25.8 per cent.

With the planting season coming on apace, the department is trying to do something about it, as it has been trying for many years—persuade farmers to plant high grade seed in what it calls "community cotton production."

Primarily these proportions of tenderability were caused by the drouth and upon mother nature the department heaps most of the blame. But it goes after the farmers for using gin-run stuff instead of using high grade seed which will not only resist drouth and produce good cotton in spite of it, but which will increase per acre yields as well.

There is many a pitfall in persuading farmers to use it. First of all, good seed costs good money. When they do plant it, next year will find farmers getting it back from the gin all mixed up with cheap stuff—and their investment will be lost.

That is why the department of agriculture is trying to get across its program of community cotton production, wherein all farmers around a gin plant only high grade seed and the gin handles cotton only from those who comply with the others. This works out nicely where tried, but it is a hard job to get it started.

Good seed is expensive and there is not enough to go around. The department and its agencies, as well as private interests, have all tried ways of getting around the situation. The idea is to start the community groups on a small basis and through them get enough seed, gradually, for everybody.

DEATHS

MRS. W. A. ROSS

OAK GROVE, La., March 13.—(Special)—A throng of bereaved friends and relatives was present Wednesday afternoon at final rites for Mrs. William Alexander Ross who died Monday of a heart attack.

Impressive funeral services were conducted from the residence, at 3:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Earl B. Emmerich, pastor of the Oak Grove Methodist church, delivering the sermon. Services were continued at the grave in Oak Grove cemetery.

Beautiful floral offerings in profusion, as well as the large number who were present, attested to the high esteem in which Mrs. Ross was held and the wide friendship she enjoyed.

Surviving are her husband, a prominent Oak Grove business man and a leading parish citizen for 33 years; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph T. Kelly, of Oak Grove; a son, W. A. Ross, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Savannah Armstrong, of Oak Grove and Shreveport, and Mrs. Frankie Galbreath, of Union Church, Miss.; a brother, Andrew Henderson, of El Paso, Tex., two grandchildren, several nephews and numerous other relatives.

Mrs. Ross, who was 61 years of age, had retired Monday night in an apparently normal condition. She awakened around 10:30 o'clock suffering from indigestion, and Mr. Ross, who was present, gave her a dose of the medicine she usually took for such attacks and the pain apparently was eased. Shortly after returning to bed, Mr. Ross spoke to her and she did not answer. Mrs. Armstrong, who resides at the Ross home, was summoned and administered aromatic spirits of ammonia. But Mrs. Ross failed to respond, passing away within a few moments, before physicians who were summoned arrived.

Prior to her marriage in Shreveport to Mr. Ross 38 years ago, Mrs. Ross was Miss Mary Etta Henderson. She was a native of Claiborne parish.

Mr. Ross, who conducted a mercantile business at Floyd some 40 years ago, before establishing a business at Shreveport, returned to West Carroll a few years after their marriage. Following several years at Floyd, the Ross family moved to Pioneer, where Mr. Ross was a general merchant and later an automobile dealer. They moved to Oak Grove in 1920, having been here since, with Mr. Ross being engaged in the automobile business.

Mrs. Ross had been ill for about two years but recently her condition appeared vastly improved. She had been home for several months, after having spent the greater portion of the time during her illness under care of a physician at Shreveport.

She had been exceptionally active and in unusually good spirits, in view of her condition, for the past few weeks. She attended church services Sunday morning and went for an automobile ride Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ross was a member of the Methodist church here and of the local chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

CHARLES C. CUMPTON

Charles C. Cumpton, 48, died at his residence near Rayville Saturday morning.

He is survived by his wife, five children and two sisters, Mrs. Arrel Beal and Mrs. Lee Moore, both of Rayville.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 9 o'clock from the residence with Rev. Hoffpauir, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Interment will take place in the Horn cemetery, near Rayville.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—(AP)—Cotton ended a week of higher prices by moving up 1 to 7 points in comparatively quiet trading.

The price range was held to 50 cents a bale and the customary week-end liquidation was readily absorbed by commission houses and trade interests.

The price trend was helped by reports of a huge turnover in cotton cloths, indications that sales of loan cotton picked up appreciably and an official consumption report that showed a sweeping advance from last year.

March ended at 14.20 bid, July at 13.65 and December at 13.17. Old crops were most in favor with buying and small gains that were achieved were the largest in this division.

The long range forecast for the week-end indicated that no untoward weather developments were expected in the belt.

Exports today were 25,211 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 1 to 7 points.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP)—Selling in steels and motors put a damper on a stock market rally today and many issues fell back fractions to 2 or more points.

Although brokers said there was nothing outstanding in the news to promote liquidation, it was thought, in view of the week-end, trading forces were inclined to cash in profits rather than extend commitments. Extreme declines were reduced in some instances in the final few minutes.

Except for a lively opening, and a moderate pickup near the close, dealings were on the quiet side. Transfers were around the 1,000,000-share mark.

Notwithstanding the lower drift of the list as a whole, a number of specialties managed to run counter to the trend for substantial gains.

The thought apparently was again present in the minds of speculative and investment forces that the administration, concerned over the recent boom in raw materials, might take steps to stem an undue inflationary movement in stocks and staples.

Offerings of U. S. government securities, heaviest since 1920 in yesterday's session, dried up appreciably and support appeared for other bonds. Commodities were uneven.

Among principal share losers most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Sloss-Sheffield, General Motors, Chrysler, Electric Auto-Lite, General Electric, Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott, St. Joseph Lead, Westinghouse, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, Goodyear, Goodrich, Fjardo Sugar and Johns-Manville.

In the resistant area were American Telephone, North American, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Oliver Farm, Boeing, Santa Fe, National Distillers, Erie, Delaware and Hudson, Cerro de Pasco, Canada Dry, McKesson and Robbins and Air Reduction.

Announcement of the accord reached between the unions and General Motors was believed to have been discounted marketwise to a considerable extent. While financial quarters were still hopeful of a nearby settlement of the Chrysler controversy, it was realized any prolonged shutdown of this company's plants would cut first quarter earnings substantially.

RICHLAND SCHOOLS TAX ELECTION TO BE CALLED

RAYVILLE, La., March 13.—(Special)—A Richland parish election on a proposed additional assessment of five mills on all property in the parish subject to taxation is expected to be called by the parish school board for April 20. Duration of the proposed tax would be 10 years.

Money raised by the tax, provided that taxpayers endorse it at the polls, would be used in the general operation of the school system. The school funds available from the present tax are inadequate for the expenses involved in the operation of the schools because of a considerable increase in the number of students and because of attendant factors, it was announced.

WORKERS NEEDED AT BATON ROUGE PLANT

Pipefitters, machinists and electricians are being sought by the Louisiana state employment service for work on the large new ethyl gasoline extraction plant now being erected for the du Pont de Nemours company at Baton Rouge. R. E. Young, manager of the employment service in Monroe, stated Saturday that he is finding it difficult to secure men who can meet the requirements.

Pipefitters must be able to erect and hang high pressure pipelines which carry a load of tetraethyl and steam. Also they must be able to work on a bending table. Men experienced in work in large manufacturing plants where high pressure pipelines have been under construction are preferred. Men must not be over 45 years of age and must undergo a rigid physical examination.

Machinists must be able to set up machinery, read blue prints, lift up shafting, etc. The age limit and physical qualifications are the same as those required for pipefitters.

Electricians must be experienced in conduit work and able to install motors. Age limit and physical examinations are similar to those required for other lines.

Applications of those who can qualify will be received at the local office of the employment service, 409 DeSiard street.

State's 'Youngest Sheriff' Ends First Year's Duties

J. Bryan Thigpen Has Led Busy Life Since Filling Father's Shoes

RUSTON, La., March 13.—(Special)—Believed to be the youngest sheriff in Louisiana, J. Bryan Thigpen, 33, this week completed his first year of "business" as sheriff and ex-officio tax collector of Lincoln parish, and has submitted to cross-examination for anniversary testimony.

The young sheriff is following in the footsteps of his father, A. J. Thigpen, who died on March 10, 1936. The senior Thigpen had been sheriff here for 16 years and had been nominated for another term in the January primary last year by a majority of about 1,000 votes over three opponents, polling the highest number of votes ever accorded any candidate in Lincoln parish. On the afternoon of the day that he died the parish Democratic executive committee declared J. B. Thigpen as the nominee for sheriff in the general election in April, 1936, and simultaneously Governor James A. Noe appointed the son to fill the unexpired term of his father, ending in June, 1936.

The new sheriff qualified and took office on March 12, although his duties were not exactly new to him. For [illegible] years he had been the chief office deputy in the sheriff's department and when his father was away in the interests of a case or was taking a vacation, the responsibilities of the office were assumed by the son.

On the anniversary of his officiating Sheriff Thigpen said he had been "kept too busy" to realize that he is the sheriff "and that the whole thing seems like a dream."

"It just seems to me that my father has gone away on a case or a vacation and that I am 'holding the fort' until he gets back," he stated.

As aides in the field work of the department Sheriff Thigpen retained the two experienced men who had served under his father. They are Deputy Clyde Frazier, now in his 13th year as a sheriff's officer here, and C. E. Lezzett, a deputy for the last five years. Fred B. Wilder was appointed as chief office deputy to have charge of tax collections, the job formerly held by the present sheriff.

Sheriff Thigpen and his field deputies have traveled about 60,000 miles by automobile during the past year and have brought 81 criminal cases before the court, the records show. Of those cases 79 resulted in convictions with 65 pleading guilty and 14 being tried. There were 18 penitentiary sentences, 27 road sentences, 33 fines paid and one execution which was the first hanging at Ruston in [illegible] years. Taxes and licenses collected and distributed during the year amounted to $262,800.61.

In reviewing his first year's work Sheriff Thigpen recalled this week that his first case broke on Sunday, March 15, after he had assumed office the preceding Thursday. It was the case of Hattie Fuller, negro, charged with the murder of a negro in the northwest section of the parish. The arrest was effected at Monroe on March 18 and Fuller was returned here by Deputy Frazier. Sheriff Thigpen at that time had gone to Naples, Fla., to bring back Mrs. M. E. Morgan and her daughter, Louise, charged with swindling an automobile here by means of the confidence game. The two women had been sought since May, 1935.

Another major case occurred here on July 4 when Dave Maxfield, negro, was apprehended for the murder of Fletcher Shelton, negro. The arrest was made on the day of the crime.

The high-light of the young sheriff's year began on August 9, when Johnnie Sanders, negro, was arrested for the robbing of a filling station operated by E. B. Hays, four miles west of Ruston. The next day Sanders confessed to the murder of Sim Evans, white farmer of Lincoln parish, on October 25, 1935. Sanders was tried at the October term of court and convicted and was executed on January 15 by Sheriff Thigpen, who never before had witnessed a hanging. That was the outstanding case left unsolved [illegible] the elder Thigpen died.

Another significant [illegible] here was the apprehension of Ross McCorkle, Ruston youth, for [illegible] about an hour after [illegible] W. W. Warren, [illegible] filling station operator.

On January 20, 1937, Aron Parker and William B. Read, who kidnaped and robbed W. [illegible], Ruston taxicab driver, gave the sheriff's officers an exciting chase. The two bandits were apprehended in Vicksburg, Miss., on January 22 and returned here the next day by Sheriff Thigpen and Deputy Frazier. Parker was sentenced to the penitentiary and Read was extradited to West Virginia for trial on a murder charge.

After listening to the sheriff relate some of the high spots that have kept him busy, the correspondent turned the table on the law enforcement officer by referring to some of his own contacts with the "law" when he was a student at Louisiana Tech.

"While checking up on your attendance at the college here the other day," the writer said, "I found that you had been assessed 15 demerits for disturbing an English class and 10 demerits for [illegible] in a trigonometry class. That's supposed to be confidential information, but it might tickle the people to read about it."

"All right, put it in the story," Sheriff Thigpen replied. "But you might as well tell them the worst. I got 75 demerits once for being out on the streets of Ruston after 1 o'clock at night, and 75 demerits at another time for going to see my girl at the wrong time and place."

The law lets him stay out any time now, day or night, and he later married the girl.

YOUNGEST SHERIFF?

J. Bryan Thigpen, above, of Ruston, who this week completes his first year as sheriff of Lincoln parish, believes he is the youngest sheriff in Louisiana. He is 33 years old.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE TALISMAN OF CHARLEMAGNE—This relic consists of a large sapphire inclosing a little cross made from the wood of the True Cross. It was a gift from Harun al Raschid (of the Arabian Nights) to Charlemagne, Emperor of the West. The latter wore it in every battle and ordered it interred with him when he died in 814.

252 years later, Emperor Otto entered Charles' tomb at Aix and found the mummy of the occupant sitting on his throne and wearing the talisman around his neck. The [illegible] of the talisman led to the outbreak of the Crusades, because the Frankish emperors based their claim to the Holy Land upon its ownership.

It was presented to Napoleon I, from whom it passed to Napoleon III. The German Kaiser offered fantastic sums for its purchase, but Napoleon III's widow preferred to leave it to the Cathedral of Rheims where it is today.

COTTON MEETINGS TO BE CONDUCTED

Union Parish Community Committeemen To Be Selected This Week

FARMERVILLE, La., March 13.—(Special)—Pursuant to the regulations governing the 1937 cotton program, meetings will be held throughout Union parish beginning March 15, for the purpose of electing community committeemen. Each ward in the parish will have a community committee of three members. This is somewhat different from the organization which governed the cotton program heretofore, when the entire parish could have only 24 local committeemen.

The purpose of the community committee is to assist in preparing, checking and approving applicable forms and documents filed in the parish in connection with the 1937 cotton program. They shall also assist the secretary (county agent) in arranging meetings and ascertain and report such data as may be required by the county committee for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the 1937 program. Thus it is seen that those elected must be men of high standing in their respective communities and possessing a rather liberal education. All election meetings and meetings to be held thereafter will be held strictly according to parliamentary rules and regulations.

Those entitled to become members of the parish association and eligible to vote are persons who derive the principal part of their income from the farm and who signify that they will be party to a 1937 cropping agreement.

The meetings to be held next week are as follows. Sardis (ward 9) Monday 1 p.m. March 15; Spearsville (ward 3) Tuesday 9 a.m. March 16; Truxno (ward 6) Tuesday 1 p.m., March 16; Lillie (ward 10) Wednesday 9 a.m., March 17; Bernice (ward 4) Wednesday 1 p.m., March 17; Mt. Ararat (ward 5) Thursday 9 a.m., March 18; Cross Road (ward 7) Thursday 1 p.m., March 18; Hallie (ward 8) Friday 9 a.m., March 19; Marion (ward 2) Friday 1 p.m., March 19, and Farmerville (ward 1) Saturday 9 a.m., March 20.

JUNK BUYER HELD UNDER $200 BOND

Accused Of Buying Property From Youths Under 17 Years Old

With the arrest Saturday of Fritz G. Koppe, junk dealer, whose place of business is located at Eleventh and Grammont street, the police here declared that a ring of negro juvenile thieves had been broken up. Koppe was taken into custody by the sheriff's department on two warrants charging him with buying property from minors under 17 years of age. He was released after posting a bond for $200.

Five negro youths were arrested earlier in the week by the police department on the complaint of several business establishments here who reported that the negroes had stolen brass and copper fittings. When questioned by the police it is alleged that the youths confessed the thefts and claimed they sold the stolen property to Koppe. Later the youths were released by the police.

Commenting on the case, Judge W. M. Harper Saturday declared that the negroes were released because under the law, they could not be held in jail.

"Petty thieving on the part of negro juveniles has been going on in Monroe for years and the police are helpless as there is no place of detention where such offenders can be sent," Judge Harper said. "These boys have been severely chastised but it does no good. The next day they are again arrested for stealing. The trouble lies in the fact that the state has made no provision for negro juvenile delinquents. We have the Louisiana Training Institute at Monroe for white boys, but no institution for negroes exists. Until the state takes some action on this matter the police of this and other cities are greatly handicapped in their task of coping with negro juvenile delinquents."

Dr. Harvey Dillon, superintendent of L. T. I. Saturday stated that he will urge the establishing of a corrective institution for negro juvenile offenders at the next session of the state legislature.

Real Estate Transfers

Mrs. Bennie S. Golson sold to N. B. Golson and P. J. Golson, an undivided one-quarter interest in 150 acres located in sections 35 and 36, township 18, range 1 east; an undivided one-quarter interest to lot 35 of Cornelia's addition to West Monroe, an undivided one-quarter interest to property inherited by her from the estate of S. W. Sheppard, deceased. The consideration of the sale was $200.

MILLS PROPOSES ABOLISHING WAR

Louisiana Representative Working For Early Hearing On Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—(Special)—Boosting his bill to end war by abolishing all armies and boycotting any nation that starts trouble, Representative Newt V. Mills of Monroe, La., is lining up congressmen to support it and is working for a hearing.

He expects the foreign affairs committee of the house to set a hearing date before long. Mr. Mills has been out getting support and sponsorship for his plan, and although it was introduced only a little more than a week ago, he expresses confidence of its success. He hopes to persuade Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., to introduce a companion bill in the upper chamber for him.

The plan is based on the old idea of abolishing all armies and navies with some newer ideas added. First, the president would call upon all nations to meet in Washington and agree to outlaw war by scrapping all existing naval, air and military forces, leaving only enough for police duty within each nation.

Next he would have them agree to prohibit private manufacture of war materials and governmental regulation of explosives for industry. A "world peace army and navy" would then be created to insure observance of neutrality. This would be apportioned among the nations according to size and a neutral state would be established to serve as barracks for it.

To make peace even more secure his plan would starve out any aggressive country by an agreement to sever all trade relations and to boycott it rigidly. Topping it off would be a permanent world peace tribunal, to be established at the proposed Washington meeting, before which all violations of the agreement would go for trial and punishment.

Cotton, district deputy grand master. WPA BOOKBINDING PLAN UNDER WAY

Thousands Of Worn Books Will Be Reconditioned In Shop

Thousands of worn out textbooks and library books will be reconditioned by the Monroe bookbinding project of the works progress administration, it was announced Saturday by Mrs. Mildred Taylor, district supervisor of women's and professional projects.

The Monroe unit of the state bookbinding project employs 27 men and women from the WPA rolls of the parish. This group, after proper training, began the reconditioning of the school books of the parish in their headquarters in the basement of Central Grammar school.

The books, many of them with pages missing and soiled with pencil marks and dirt, are assorted as soon as they are brought to the workshop. Then the work of cleaning the pages, adding missing pages and placing new backs is begun.

T. O. Harris, state superintendent of education, in requesting the project, stated that thousands of dollars would be saved the taxpayers of the state by this project.

The books when finished, according to Mrs. Taylor, are just as serviceable as they were the day they were purchased by the state and many more years of service are made possible for each of the rebuilt volumes.

The unit in Monroe is now working on school library books in addition to the textbooks of the schools. After proper training courses the crew of workmen has become more efficient and is now turning out the finished books rapidly.

Recently Mrs. J. Gill, supervisor of bookbinding projects that are already operating in seven of the major cities of the state came to Monroe and instructed a class which consisted of representatives from Webster, Lincoln, Union, Jackson, Richland and Franklin parishes. These students after completing their training courses were sent back to their respective parishes, where they will train other workers.

Mrs. Taylor states that the project not only provides work for needy men and women but also teaches them a trade they will be able to pursue when they can be absorbed by private industry.

ENGINEER SUCCEEDS AREA WPA DIRECTOR

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—(Special)—J. H. Talbot, district director of the works progress administration of the Baton Rouge district, will be transferred to the state headquarters, division of finance, it was announced today by James H. Crutcher, state WPA administrator.

Anthony D. Lambert, Baton Rouge engineer, has been appointed by Mr. Crutcher to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Talbot's transfer.

"The employment of Mr. Lambert as director of the third district is in line with WPA's policy to fill such vacancies with engineers who are thoroughly familiar with construction work and who possess administrative ability," Mr. Crutcher stated. "This policy is necessary because our program is so largely one of public construction."

Mr. Lambert, a graduate of Louisiana State university, where he also received his master's degree in engineering, has a long and active record in construction work. In addition to his engineering experience, he was also a teacher of engineering and mathematics at L. S. U.

Assigned at present to state headquarters of the WPA, Mr. Lambert, after familiarizing himself with government routine, will be transferred to the Baton Rouge office shortly after March 22, according to Mr. Crutcher.

Prior to his association with WPA, Mr. Lambert has been connected with the J. L. Ham company of Minden, La., Louisiana highway commission, Louisiana Railway and Navigation company, and the Lambert Construction company of Alexandria.

Lilies Favorites As Easter Nears; College Girls Will Soon Be Returning Home For Brief Vacations

By Eve Bradford

EASTER lilies, glorified by the poets from the earliest times, cherished by the ancients, immortalized in mythology and exalted above all other flowers by King Solomon, are now blooming in florists' shops in readiness for the dawn of a glorious Eastertide. Though all flowers are appropriate for Easter, the lily has become the accepted favorite because it is the symbol of the resurrection.

We recall at this time the legend that tells of Christ walking in the garden of Gethsemane the night before His death. "Every flower in the garden bowed its head before His agony—all except the lily, which said, 'He chose me as the most beautiful of all, gorgeous above the greatest of kings. I will stand erect and comfort Him with my beauty and fragrance.' As the Savior passed in the garden He stopped for a moment to gaze at the beautiful moonlight. The lily was so overcome by His humility and its own unworthiness, that it bowed its head in shame, and since that day has never held its head erect."

The unusually warm winter season has speeded the blossoming of the lilies and they are found in greater abundance this year than ever before. Everything in fact is upward striving. The azaleas have already spent themselves, the redbud is at the height of its glory, the wisteria is ready to burst into full bloom and the iris and pansies have blossomed extravagantly for weeks and weeks.

Spring came knocking at our door so early this year that vacationists are already planning their summer trips. Most fascinating is the itinerary mapped out by George and Louise Seymour and Charlie and Mabel Wallace, who will be in the south of France early in May to attend the International Rotary convention in Nice and then sail on the Normandie for a Mediterranean cruise. They will go to Madeira, Gibraltar, Algiers, Naples. It sounds utterly fascinating, don't you think? Of course, they will visit the Paris exposition before leaving for Nice. We are told that French industrial arts are working overtime on new ideas—foot bridges across the Seine—a huge "Burgundian cave" or wine cellar, 40 yards long. Here famous Burgundian wines will be served—Chamblis, Chambertin, Pommard. The famous zoo of Paris is being pepped up, too. Doubtless all the lady camels will get their faces lifted and lionesses will have permanents. It might be amusing to spend the summer in Paris. Who knows?

College girls will soon come trooping home for the Easter season, and in the meantime we are reminded of the strides some of them are taking. Jane Dawkins, for instance—she was recently judged the most popular girl on the campus at Mary Baldwin college, Stanton, Va. Always a coveted honor is the chairmanship of the president's forum at Mary Baldwin recently awarded to Jane. She will be home next week for the holidays.

Sara Cole Morrison, student at Randolph Macon, will make a grand tour of the east during her 10-day vacation, with Easter in Atlantic City as the highlight. She has received invitations galore to house parties, so she will compromise by attending them all. Last week Sara Cole received a huge box of edibles from her Pi Phi sorority sisters in this city. There was enough food for countless midnight snacks.

According to Balzac, noted French writer, a woman is more beautiful at 30 than at any other time. Another writer claims that life begins at 40 and it is then that women are most beautiful. We are inclined to believe that life really begins at 40, as we have several women in Monroe who grow more beautiful with the passing years. Daisy Terzia is one of the most glamorous looking women in the city. With her beautiful white, wavy hair, framing her youthful face and a flair for distinguished dress, she is a most charming looking person to gaze upon. We saw her recently wearing a black tailleur with wide brimmed black sailor—the very essence of chic.

We firmly believe that all we have ever thought and what we have ever done becomes a part of our personalities and it is etched on our faces as indelibly as on our spirits. It is not possible to strain for the green pastures that lie over the hills, while we trample the garden that waits to be cultivated without it leaving a trace of the struggle on our countenance.

To really attain the goal of one's desire is something very few experience. Fred Gibbs, however, has reached the goal of after years of striving most successfully in the banking world. A former Monroe man, he left a number of years ago for Los Angeles where he has been associated with the Security First National bank. Recently we heard of his promotion. He is now president of the Security National bank of Glendale, Calif. His beautiful home in Santa Monica will be sold and another home, larger and handsomer, than the first, will be erected in Glendale where he and his interesting family are now residing.

Lenten musicals and teas have been much in vogue this year. At Lakeside Country club Grace Ingledue in classic gown of white chiffon gave a dramatic reading before a little group of culturists who praised her work and her flawless, deep-throated voice. Miss Ingledue was also featured on the Fine Arts club program at Northeast Center last week. Her story of "The Angelus" was most appealing. We are all familiar with Jean Francois Millet's painting but very few know the story, which says:

"All afternoon they had been working in the field, the busy farmer and his wife. They were harvesting their crop of potatoes, he digging away with his three-pronged fork, and she gathering the potatoes up into a basket before putting them into one of the sacks on the nearby wheelbarrow. Soon their second sack would be full and they could go toward home, happy in the knowledge of a good day's work.

"But hark! Across the level field sounds the musical note of a distant church bell. It is from the steeple seen far off in the village. They cannot attend the vesper service in person, but they know that they can do so in spirit.

"Stopping short in their work, the two stand bent in silent prayer.

"That is the message of this simple picture, known and loved around the world. We are God's children, and His temple is in the hearts of men. These two simple peasants [illegible] in their lives."

300 Women Hear Jennie Lee Speak

Former Member Of British Parliament Delivers Interesting Talk Before Club Members At Rayville

A distinct achievement for members of the Lambda Kappa club and the Junior Literary club of Rayville was the presentation of Mrs. Jennie Lee, former member of the British parliament and internationally known journalist, as guest speaker at their open meeting March 5, at the Presbyterian church.

This event, attracting literary club women from Monroe, Mangham, Delhi and Alto, was one of the most distinctive and elegant affairs in cultural circles of the season. More than 300 beautifully frocked women heard the brilliant speaker and enjoyed the social contact always such a charming feature with events of this nature.

The League for Industrial Democracy and the Emergency Peace Campaign brought Miss Lee to America and her work has been endorsed by the Russell Sage foundation, one of the largest organizations working for betterment of social conditions in America. Having spent several years in various European countries working as a journalist and having just come from Spain, Miss Lee is well informed upon world affairs.

In speaking of her training Miss Lee told of her father's work in organizing a miners' union in Scotland, her study of law, her work in parliament and later as a journalist. She pointed out various changes made in England during her lifetime and mentioned [illegible] one and one-half billion pounds being spent in England for armaments.

"Old ideas and interests can not [illegible] new ones," stated Miss Lee. "If we want peace, we can not get it at a bargain counter; we must give up the old things; we must make radical changes within nations as well as between nations. What we have now is of no use; we must discard that and go forward.

"The idea of the privileged must be [illegible] for if we believe in the rule of the privileged in countries we believe in the rule of privileged between countries.

"The countries in Europe are concerned about the order of the procession [illegible] is to have certain [illegible]. Why should young lives be taken for what has proved to be an accounting of prestige and property? The treaty of Versailles, which stripped Germany of her possessions, left her a grievance which may eventually lead to war.

"Because of so much trouble in and among nations, the general mood is that both peace and democracy have failed. Social injustice, unemployment and poverty crowd in upon man, causing him to lose sight of his goal. Though we live in modern times, our social arrangement which promotes [illegible] is still savage."

Miss Lee further explained that not all people were interested in empire building, that for ages people have worked for democracy. During the American revolution there were British people and statesmen who earnestly desired freedom for the colonies. In like manner some of the advocators of independence for India are at the heart of the British empire. Not the old language of dominance and privilege should be talked in India but a new language of free world citizenship.

In speaking of the situation in Spain, Miss Lee spoke of conditions there several years ago; of the desire of the people for sanitation, for wooden floors in their homes, and some education for their children. They flattered England and America by trying to follow them, and succeeded in establishing a democratic government which did bring about many improvements. When the would-be rulers of Spain with rebel forces attacked this government, the people wondered why the other democratic countries failed them. "Neutrality in this case," stated Miss Lee, "means upholding war." The privileged class looks upon the common man as cheap labor in time of peace and dumb cannon fodder in time of war.

"Charity, social justice, democracy and peace begin at home. This movement for peace is not stale, but new and vital. Each individual must do his own thinking and planning for peace; then and only then will all nations live in peace and harmony."

It is in the springtime when Camp Fire girls take old trails with high courage and old trails with new enthusiasm and vision, rededicating themselves to high standards and happy wholesome living.

Helen Fernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fernandez, is one of the most enthusiastic Camp Fire girls in the city. Addressing a group of Camp Fire girls, recently organized, she said:

"Girls of my group and other groups in Monroe are benefited by the Camp Fire to a great extent. It teaches us to be kind and true to our Camp Fire sisters. It makes us want to work and study, hoping to win honors. Camp Fire, I think, should be a part of every young girl's life. Camp Fire is fine for girls rich or poor. It is an outdoor life loved by everyone. 'Roughing it' awhile is better than medicine for anyone. Nature, fresh air and sunshine is wonderful for the health. Sleeping out in the open, exploring surrounding forests, making new trails, swimming, laughing, and riding; this is a wonderful life for any girl."

Mrs. Charles McCord has returned from a visit with friends in Dallas.

Interesting Program And Banquet Given; Fort Miro Chapter Represented By Mrs. Faulk And Mrs. Flower

Fort Miro chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was represented by Mrs. C. E. Faulk, regent, and Mrs. C. M. Flower, state vice-regent, in Tallulah where the twenty-ninth annual conference of the Louisiana D. A. R. was held on Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. A. R. Lacey of Shreveport, state regent, presided over the board meeting at the community club and later at the elaborate banquet arranged for 100 or more visiting delegates.

A colonial dance by Lettie Louise Lee and Betty Bridge was among the entertainment features. Mrs. Ralph Agate of Lafayette, gave the invocation.

The business session followed the banquet at the Methodist church beginning with a processional led by Mrs. J. Harris Baughman, of Tallulah, vice-president general, and Mrs. Lacey. Mrs. Ralph Agate, second vice-regent for the state, led the devotional service in the absence of the state chaplain, Mrs. Flora F. Bowers. The pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. C. L. Ross and the Americas Creed by Miss M. Moore, after which the singing of "America" by the assembly was led by Mrs. R. L. Baily.

The appointment of committees and report of the program committee and credentials committee were followed by music by Mrs. Lamar Lee and Miss Ethel Emory.

The session closed with an impressive memorial service for members of the D. A. R. in the state who have been removed by death during the past year, was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Agate, who placed a white carnation in a vase as a memorial for each member.

Realizing that "youth is ever the hope and promise of a nation. As it is trained, so does the nation grow, for the ideals of a nation are reflected in her youth," members of the Daughters of the American Revolution sponsored a good citizenship pilgrimage contest that climaxed March 20 with contestants from the 48 states taking part.

Thousands of D. A. R. chapters are finding it a real joy to assist young men and women in solving the problems they face at a time when qualities of true American character were never more desperately needed.

The winners of the good citizenship contest comprise young high school girls, one from each of the 48 states. They will go to Washington next month to be the guests of the D. A. R. during the 46th continental congress which will convene Monday evening, April 19, in Constitutional hall.

A luncheon at Hotel Heidelberg in Baton Rouge climaxed the entertainment for the young women and the D. A. R. representatives. The names of Miss Rosemary Genre of Port Allen was drawn at this time to represent the state of Louisiana in Washington next month.

Miss Genre will be the guest of the National Congress D. A. R. during her stay in Washington. In company with girls from the other 47 states, she will be shown through the White House and will be acquainted with all the details of the functioning of the national government.

Miss Clyde Mobley, state supervisor of home economics, addressed the visitors at the luncheon in a brief but concise discussion of "Good Citizenship." Following a sketch of the history, organization and aims of the D. A. R. program of sending the young women to Washington, Mrs. Mobley was requested to draw a name from a group. Miss Genre's name was selected and Betty Lou Carr of [illegible] was selected as alternate delegate in case of emergency.

Keen competition featured the contest in Louisiana where [illegible] seniors in high school attended the pilgrimage in Baton Rouge with Mrs. Eleanor Faulk, state director, presiding. Round Of Entertaining For First Spring Brides Will Get Under Way Shortly

Miss Chambers Weds Mafflin Christoffen

Muriel Tiebout And George Lowery, Jr., Marry; Approaching Wedding Of Melba Liner Claims Interest

A round of entertaining for the first spring brides will start next week and continue well into June, for several weddings of interest socially are scheduled for this season.

Announcements of weddings that have already taken place are also of paramount interest, outstanding being the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Chambers of this city, of the marriage of their daughter Marjorie, to Mr. Mafflin Christoffen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Christoffen of Pineville, La.

The wedding took place in Port Allen, La., on February 22.

Both the bride and bridegroom are students at the Louisiana State university. Mrs. Christoffen is a member of the junior class. She is also a graduate of the Neville High school of this city and Northeast Center of L. S. U. Her high school career was a brilliant one, she having been named valedictorian of her class. Many honors were also conferred upon her while attending Northeast Center. She was a member of the Purple Jacket club and other scholastic organizations.

Mr. Christoffen will graduate in vocational training in the Smith-Hughes department at the state university in June.

* * *

Claiming interest in this section of the state is the marriage of Miss Muriel Eugenia Tiebout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Tiebout of Baton Rouge, and Mr. George Hines Lowery, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Lowery of Monroe, Friday, March 12, at the home of the bride's parents on Olive street, Baton Rouge.

The ceremony, characterized by charming simplicity, was performed in the flower-banked reception suite, which extends the full width of the house. Classic urns filled with Ascension lilies and grouped against a background of luxuriant palms and ferns created a picturesque setting for the marriage service, performed by Dr. J. A. Christian, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride was attired in a lovely spring model of pearl gray crepe made on simple lines worn with a jacket of gray silk lace. A panel of the lace extended from the jacket collar the length of the jacket. She carried an arm bouquet of pink Briarcliffe roses.

She had as her only attendant her sister, Dr. Carolyn Tiebout, who wore a frock of navy blue crepe with a scatter design of bowknots in white worn with a belt of navy blue leather and trimming of white pique. Her corsage was of pink Briarcliffe roses.

Following the wedding ceremony a buffet luncheon was served in the dining room.

The table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake embossed in pink. Pouring tea and coffee at the silver services were Mrs. Ileen Emery and Mrs. G. F. Burnham of Jackson, the latter an aunt of the bride.

Immediately afterward the young couple left for a short motor trip, following which they will be at home in a new apartment on the Highland road.

Mrs. Lowery is a member of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority, and a graduate of Louisiana State university, where she has been employed since her graduation. Mr. Lowery is an ornithologist on the staff of the department of zoology at the university, and is working toward his Ph.D., having spent last summer doing work at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Guests at the wedding included only relatives and a few close friends of the couple and members of the studio staff and the zoology department faculty and staff at the university.

The interest of society, at the moment, is centered in the approaching marriage of Miss Melba Liner and Dr. Robert Gaston on April 12. The event will be a brilliant one with an unusually large wedding entourage and featuring a springtime theme of decoration. Many beautiful pre-nuptial affairs have been planned for Miss Liner with the calendar overflowing during the latter part of March and the early part of April.

Yesterday's compliment was a beautifully appointed luncheon in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel, with Mrs. Freneau Surguine and Mrs. J. W. Swift hostesses.

Last Thursday's compliment was a handkerchief shower with members of the Delta Beta Sigma sorority as hostesses. Miss Liner, sorority mother, is a great favorite not only in D. B. S. circles but in Junior league circles and the younger social set.

Librarian Speaks At P.-T. A. Meeting

A talk on the subject, "Books for Building Stones and Books to Read Aloud," was given by Miss Frances Flanders, librarian of the Neville High school, at a recent meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Barkdull Faulk school.

Miss Flanders said in part:

"Abraham Lincoln obtained his education by reading books in a log cabin by firelight. William Gladstone, the great English statesman, born the same year, graduated from aristocratic Eton college and Oxford university, the acme in English culture and education.

"Today Eton school boys commit Lincoln's Gettysburg address to memory, and his letter to Mrs. Bixby hangs on the wall of Gladstone's own college, while Gladstone's writings are read only by historians. The boy Lincoln who said ungrammatically, 'The things I want to know are in books; my best friend is the [illegible] who gives me a book I ain't read,' became the outstanding example in all history of the self-educated man.

"Parents of today are seriously concerned with the problems of how best to fit their children for life. Concerning this process of education, a tumult of voices is heard advising us. One fact seems to be certain. This is that every child should be taught to read and enjoy and love books. Books are to the mind what sunshine is to the body.

"Lullabies are called the child's first stories, because the rhythmic singing voice brings pleasure to the very young child.

"The child should be taught early the right attitude toward books. Every mother should instill in the child a sense of values so that he or she will be careful in handling books. Only in the last few years have publishers awakened to the need of attractive books for children. Formerly a child who developed a love for reading did so under great difficulties. Today, everything is offered to make reading attractive to children.

"When the child learns to read for himself, many mothers think that they can give up reading aloud to the child. Mothers should continue to read to the child, and should read stories more difficult than he can read for himself, which will lead him on to new fields.

"It is our duty as mothers, teachers, librarians to give to children the most attractive and interesting books of the many books published for children. When we have done this, we have given them a priceless gift that cannot be taken away.

"Give a man a taste for good books and the means for gratifying it, and you can hardly fail in making a happy man. You make of him a citizen of all nations, a contemporary of all ages," Miss Flanders said in conclusion.

A musical program was presented at the assembly by Ralph Irving and Jack McCook, members of the school band, and Florence Loftin and Priscilla Hampton, members of the school glee club.

The prize for having the most mothers present was won by Mrs. Lloyd Surghnor's classroom.

The ladies auxiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held their regular meeting Thursday night with 25 members in attendance. President Lena M. Morrow presided.

Before the presentation of colors, D. Guerriero was introduced and gave a very interesting talk on the maternity clinic being sponsored by the Catholic Daughters.

A most interesting report was read from the department hospital chairman, Mrs. Mildred Duggan of Alexandria. She reported having visited the veterans' hospital and presented each veteran with a comic Valentine to which a candy all-day sucker was attached, and arranged to have a Valentine napkin placed at each plate or on each tray at noon on St. Valentine's day. Mrs. Duggan reported the veterans were like a group of small boys in the pleasure and amusement they derived from the comic Valentines.

On Sunday, accompanied by the V. F. W. department chairman, Ben J. Rosenthal, an eight-act musical program was arranged at the hospital. The V. F. W. and auxiliaries in the department are indeed proud of the splendid work being carried on by the hospital chairmen.

Another nice treat for the veterans is being planned for Easter, and it was voted at Thursday night's meeting that an extra donation be sent in for the program.

At the conclusion of the meeting the colors were retired and refreshments served. The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held Thursday night, March 25. All members are urged to be present.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Allan did not complete the sentence. A shrill scream from Sissy brought Allan and Ann both rushing to the garden. There were the two small ones, safe and sound. Sissy stood sturdily, her little round legs apparently glued to the spot, her arms waving wildly. "Make 'im take 'im away, Ann."

Sonny, grinning delightedly, was holding an arm out rigidly. "Sissy scared of a worm. Fraidy!" Sonny said.

"It's a snake!" Sissy, clinging tightly to Ann, peered with fascinated eyes at the long green object dangling from her twin's hand.

"No, it's not a snake," said Allan, "although it wouldn't surprise me if snakes do come about here sometime, particularly near the river edge."

Ann shivered slightly. "You don't like snakes either, do you?" Sissy said, looking up at her.

Ann said "No" in a low tone. She was thinking of Valeria. Desolation swept over her at the thought. Fear gripped her heart.

"I suppose she's with Peter," she thought. "I suppose she is with him all the time now."

Valeria was with Peter that afternoon. And during other afternoons as the weeks passed.

She knew people were speculating, awaiting the announcement that Peter planned to get a divorce and marry her. She had not mentioned to him the subject that was nearest her heart. Valeria was biding her time.

Ann's name did not come to Peter's lips as frequently as in the past. But sometimes when Valeria referred to Ann casually, she saw a grim look settle on his face and the muscles contract about his mouth.

No, Peter hadn't forgotten Ann. But he was becoming used, as time went by, to the thought that she would never come back. Hope was leaving him. And the house was now only a symbol of an adventure in faith that had failed.

He had taken Valeria out to the house a number of times, and she had approved. [illegible] was being [illegible] Not one of her suggestions had been accepted. Peter [illegible] [illegible] face [illegible] Vincent in his place.

Allan said to Ann, "I need you this afternoon. Will you go shopping with me?" His dark eyes met hers eagerly.

"I'll be too busy."

"You haven't an alibi. I'm treating the children to a kid's matinee and Sadie has been handsomely tipped to give up her afternoon off and take them."

"But—"

"Ann, there are times when I'm not sure of you exactly. An attractive girl like you turning into a recluse."

"Allan, I—"

"I warn you, if you don't come with me, I'm prepared to be an infernal nuisance. Sadie and the children will be away. Lois will be gone. Just you and I."

He had been drinking, Ann saw. Not much, but enough to be the nuisance he boasted he would. In this mood he reminded her of Tony.

"All right," Ann agreed. "If you really need help I'll come."

"I find I'm no good at decorating without you—you and whimsicalities. We'll spend the afternoon looking at tapestries and rugs, at silks and satins, at Chippendale and Sheraton pieces, at Directoire day beds and Empire chairs. We'll talk color schemes. Do you like the program so far?"

"Perfectly."

He laughed. "What a queer girl you are. More interested in making another's home more beautiful than in planning one of your own."

"My own—" She spoke impulsively, then [illegible]

The lounge of the club house was in festive springtime attire with baskets of white flowering peach and [illegible] placed at vantage points.

Following the program hour, tea was served in the dining room where the refreshment table was developed in yellow with flaming yellow tapers encircling a mound of yellow jonquils.

Delicious confections were passed among the guests who lingered to enjoy the charming interlude which permitted them to meet Miss Ingledue and to compliment her upon her ability as a speaker and a dramatist.

'Maid Of Salem' At Paramount

Strange Episode Of American History Told In Spectacular Screen Hit

ONE of the strangest episodes in American history, the Salem witch scare of 1692, in which hundreds of innocent persons were accused by hysterical and fear-crazed neighbors with being in league with the devil and in which at least 19 women died on the gallows for "practicing witchcraft," is made the background of a motion picture for the first time in "Maid of Salem," a romance with Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray, which plays today at the Paramount theater.

In the film Miss Colbert plays the role of a simple Puritan maiden who is condemned to die as a witch on the testimony of hysterical women and over-precocious children who swear they have seen her in the woods with the devil himself. The "devil," in this case, is Fred MacMurray, who plays the part of a fugitive Virginia cavalier hiding in Salem. He and Miss Colbert are in love, and when she refuses to divulge his identity, she is condemned. Silly as this may seem in an enlightened age, it was on testimony of this type and worse that innocent persons were led up Gallows Hill behind old Salem and hung.

Belief in witchcraft and diabolical possession was widespread over the world at that time. Previous to 1692 no less than 10,000 persons had been put to death as dealers in witchcraft and black magic. Coke, the great law writer, and Sir Thomas Browne were among the believers in witchcraft. In Massachusetts the most prominent believer was the Puritan divine, Cotton Mather, who wrote several books prior to 1700 on the subject.

There is little doubt that the writings of Mather did much to stimulate the excitement in Salem Village, now Danvers, but that he tried to do so, or was malicious in intent, is not shown by evidence.

The frenzy first broke out at the home of the Rev. Samuel Parris, who had a West Indian slave, Tituba. She was given to such practices as making love philtres, casting spells and reading palms. Four or five young girls who spent their winter evenings in her kitchen fell under the influence of her personality. They developed fits, screamed, barked like dogs, and uttered weird statements about villagers whose reputations were unblemished.

Parris regarded them as bewitched. Psychologists today infer that they were victims of what is now known as hystero-epilepsy, but in those days the symptoms were clearly regarded as those of demoniacal possession. The girls accused not only Tituba of bewitching them, but charged others, including the blameless Rebecca Nurse, as being in league with evil spirits.

They were believed by the committee that investigated the case, and since witchcraft was a capital offense the accused were put on trial. All Salem Village was thrown into a frenzy. Hundreds were under the shadow of suspicion and in jeopardy of their lives. It was unsafe to express disbelief in the guilt of the accused, who were found "guilty" one by one, despite the eloquent pleadings of their advocates and the valiant defense offered by 70-year-old Rebecca Nurse.

The executions were carried out amidst a vast mob on Gallows Hill. Many hundred others throughout Massachusetts colony were cast into prison, among them Tituba herself, who languished in jail for a year.

Not all the jurists believed in the guilt of the "witches," and a few spoke out vigorously against the delusion. The reaction set in quickly enough. In less than ten months it was over, and in 1693 Governor Phelps ordered the release from prison of all who were charged with witchcraft.

While a blot on colonial history, it must be remembered that the Salem witchcraft scare was the only instance in American annals, and that scares more widespread and terrible in their resulting loss of lives obtained at the same time in Europe.

"Maid of Salem," directed by Frank Lloyd, who was responsible for "Cavalcade" and "Mutiny on the Bounty," was filmed at the Paramount studios in Hollywood, and at Santa Cruz, where a replica of old Salem Village was built to the designs of Bernard Herzbrun, noted expert on colonial architecture.

'The Great O'Malley' At Capitol

Pat O'Brien And Humphrey Bogart Head Cast In Drama Of East Side

THAT ever-popular Irish film star, Pat O'Brien, has the title role in "The Great O'Malley," a melodrama of life in New York's colorful East Side which opens at the Capitol theater today.

Pat's a policeman this time. He's Officer O'Malley, a tough, hard-boiled copper who cannot see beyond his rule book until a little crippled girl and a lovely school teacher humanize him. By the time the final fadeout ends the story he's a regular fellow, just as Pat always is, in films indeed in real life.

Sharing stellar honors with him, Humphrey Bogart, who scored so greatly as the killer in "The Petrified Forest," again runs amuck of the law.

Ann Sheridan, another recent discovery of the studio, who was a high school girl in Dallas, Tex., only a year ago, plays the school teacher. Fortune has been good to Ann. This is only her second picture, yet already she is a leading lady—at 21!

The little crippled child is played by Sybil Jason, the 7-year-old South African child actress who captivated movie audiences in "The Little Big Shot" and "The Singing Kid."

Freda Inescort, who is a fairly newcomer to the screen, although a veteran stage actress, puts real pathos into the role of Sybil's mother.

Others with important parts are Donald Crisp, Henry O'Neill, Mary Gordon and Hobart Cavanaugh.

William Dieterle, the famed director who made "The Story of Louis Pasteur" and "White Angel," guided the making of "The Great O'Malley." The screen play was written by Milton Krims and Tom Reed from an original story by the late Gerald Beaumont.

THE MILITANT POPULACE FLOCKED TO THE BATTLEGROUND TO SEIZE THE WEAPONS OF THE FALLEN SOLDIERS.
AND NOW TARZAN'S RECRUITS FOUGHT THEIR WAY TOWARD THE PALACE OF THE TYRANT FLINT.
FROM HUNDREDS OF LIPS BURST THE BATTLE-CRY: "FOR KING, FOR COUNTRY, AND FOR FREEDOM!"
THAT CRY INSPIRED FLINT'S TRICKY MIND, AND AT HIS COMMAND, THE KIND AND JUST KING DALKON, WHO WAS HIS PRISONER, WAS LED OUT ON A BALCONY OVERLOOKING THE FIERCE COMBAT.
AND A CRIER PROCLAIMED TO THE PEOPLE: "LAY DOWN YOUR ARMS AND YOU WILL BE FORGIVEN; REFUSE, AND THE KING WILL DIE!"
TARZAN'S FIGHTERS WERE STUPEFIED, FOR THEY WORSHIPED THEIR BELOVED MONARCH ALMOST AS A GOD.
RELUCTANTLY, TO SAVE HIS LIFE, THEY BEGAN TO SURRENDER THEIR WEAPONS.

FLINT WATCHED THE PROGRESS OF HIS DEVILISH PLAN AND CHUCKLED: "TARZAN IS LICKED!"

—AND WE WILL PROVE, YOUR HONOR AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY, THAT "BALDY" STARK DID SHOOT DOWN AND IN COLD BLOOD DID KILL ONE "SHIRTSLEEVE" KELTON—
—FURTHERMORE, THAT UNDER THE BANNER OF THE PURPLE CROSS HE TOOK PART IN NUMEROUS BANK ROBBERIES, SHOOTING AND MURDERING HIS WAY TO FREEDOM! FREEDOM BOUGHT BY THE BLOOD OF CITIZENS ALL OVER THIS COUNTRY.
THE FACT THAT "SHIRTSLEEVE" KELTON HIMSELF WAS A KILLER IN NO WAY MINIMIZES THE FACT THAT KELTON'S MURDER WAS A COLD-BLOODED, BRUTAL ACT, CALLING FOR THE MAXIMUM PENALTY.

WHEN MISS McKEE USED AN ENTIRE SUITCASE TO CARRY ONLY A HANDFUL O' MONEY.
IT DIDN'T MAKE SENSE. THEN I DISCOVERED THAT SHE HAD NO TWIN SISTER, AS SHE CLAIMED.
THEN WHO WAS KIKI?
THERE'S NO SUCH PERSON. CHARLOTTE PLAYED BOTH PARTS, CHANGING HER DRESS AND STYLE OF HAIR. ONLY SHE FORGOT TO CHANGE HER RING — ALSO HER LEFT STOCKING, WHICH HAD A RUN.
WELL, I'LL BE!
THEN I SOCKED A BOZO AND LEARNED HE WAS AN ACTOR EMPLOYED BY MR. VAN GILT, YOUR CLUBMEMBER. I CALLED VAN GILT'S OFFICE AND LEARNED THAT HIS SECRETARY IS MISS McKEE, AND THAT HE HAD COME TO THIS ADDRESS. IT WAS QUITE SIMPLE-
SPLENDID DEDUCTION! SPLENDID!

NO THANKS, GENTLEMEN.

BUT WHERE?
OH, I DUNNO. MAYBE IN SPAIN. I HEAR THEY'RE PAYING $1500 A MONTH FOR FLYERS.
BUT GOOD HEAVENS. THINK OF THE DANGER
YOU MIGHT BE KILLED.
WELL, WHAT THE BLAZES! A FELLA CAN'T EXPECT TO LIVE FOREVER.

WHICH ONE, SAM?
THAT WAS ONLY A RUSE, CAPTAIN. I WANTED TO SEE YOU ALONE. I-AH-HAVE A PROPOSITION FOR YOU.
YOU MEAN, A JOB?
NOT THE ORDINARY KIND, HEAVENS, NO! HERE'S $1,000 ON ACCOUNT. BUT FIRST I MUST SWEAR YOU TO THE STRICTEST SECRECY.

The SMILING ANGEL OF RHEIMS

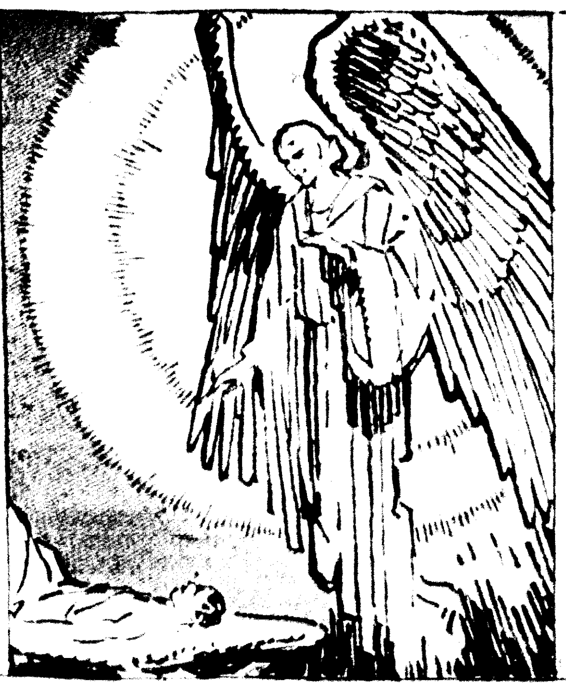
LE SOURIRE DE REIMS
POSTE

© 1937 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

GERMAN shells were bursting over the venerable, old cathedral of Rheims, in the World War. For weeks the holy edifice seemed to mock the wrath of the invader, and then one evening a cannon roared and the roof of the great church crumbled.

In the trenches a lone French poilu watched the devastation, and his heart burned within him. Suddenly he leaped over the parapet and, alone, marched on the enemy. He would avenge the ruined cathedral, and he wanted no help from his comrades. But the Germans were no idealists.

A single shot, and the brave soldier fell wounded. He was carried behind the lines unconscious, and placed in front of his beloved cathedral, to await the ambulance. And then a miracle happened.



As the soldier lay there, a light appeared before the church, and all the sculptured angels seemed to awake. One, wearing a flowered crown, and on her lips a benign smile, came to the bleeding poilu. She knelt beside him and comforted him, and she told him the story of France, of its survival through centuries of conflict, and of its certain destiny beyond this war. She assured him of her own immortality, despite the German guns.

When the angel disappeared, the soldier opened his eyes, and found himself in a large hospital ward, while a beautiful nurse smiled down upon him. On a stamp, issued by France in 1930, appears the smiling angel of Rheims, as though to verify this legend.
